General Strike Brings France To Standstill

Electricity, Gas Gone As Workmen Open 24-Hour Demonstration

PARIS (AP)—Electricity and gas workers brought industry to a virtual halt throughout France today with a 24-hour strike for higher wages.

Radio and television went off the air, telephones went dead, subways, trains and elevators stopped running. Newspaper presses halted and late morning editions failed to appear.

Hundreds of thousands of the five million people of Paris—"The City of Light" — groped in predawn darkness to get to work after a cold breakfast. The gas was low or out, and there were no street lights.

Many workers failed to get to their jobs.

The French long - line railroad system, which is 60 per cent electrified, was hard hit. Some passenger trains stopped between stations and steam locomotives had to be sent to bring them in.

* * *

ROUEN, BREST, Bordeaux, Toulouse, Marseille, Lyon, St. Etienne, Calais and the Lille-Roubaix-Tourcoing area, as well as Paris, were seriously affected. Strasbourg was receiving only intermittent current.

The huge St. Nazaire shipyards, hit by rotating strikes for three weeks, shut down because of lack of power.

At the big port of Le Havre dock workers, metal workers and even hospital employes joined the gas and electric workers in walking out.

The strike, described as about 90 per cent effective, began at midnight and will end tonight.

It came as France fought to overcome one of its worst political crises, and on the eve of nationwide demonstrations whipped up by the Communists.

After 16 days of crisis, rightist Antoine Pinay was still trying to form a government.

The Interior Ministry was increasingly concerned by plans of the Communists to bring thousands into the streets Thursday to demonstrate for peace in Algeria.

The labor unions in today's strike are generally opposed to Pinay. The walkout was believed partly aimed at him.

The strike, on which the unions, called out 110,000 workers, followed long negotiations for higher pay. The unions had demanded 30 per cent raises, the government offered 20 per cent.

Salaries range between about $42 and $238 a month. Family allocations and other benefits, however, added considerably to average wages.

Queen Slated To Arrive in Old Virginia

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — The pendulum of time swings back 350 years today for Virginia, America and Queen Elizabeth II of England.

The British monarch chose to open a six-day visit to the United States in a storied segment of tidewater Virginia.

After she lands at Newport News, Va., the Queen and her consort, Prince Philip, were to tour Jamestown and Williamsburg for five hours, then attend a reception and dinner as part of the 350th anniversary celebration of the first permanent British settlement in the new world.

Thursday the royal couple will fly to Washington. They will fly home from New York City early Tuesday.

Williamsburg is the region of the tale of Pocahontas and Captain John Smith.

And here on this historic peninsula between the James and York rivers, Britain's 13 American colonies and the Revolutionary War were lost.

The Queen flew to Williamsburg from Ottawa, Canada, after four days of regal duties and glittering social events. Her last full day in Canada was climaxed Tuesday night by a reception for more than 1,300 persons and a formal dinner party for 20 given by Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker.

Sitter Finds Baby Is Tough Customer

CINCINNATI (AP) — It was a brisk afternoon for 6-year - old Michael Schaible Jr., who, police said, shot his baby-sitter, Mrs. Naomi Babe, 45, in the right arm.

Investigators said Mrs. Babe found Michael holding a .22-caliber rifle, and said he told her: "This gun is loaded: if you come in I'll shoot you." Thinking it was a toy, she walked in unafraid. The rifle discharged, striking her in the forearm.

Mrs. Babe was released after hospital treatment, but police took over her baby-sitting chore temporarily.

Russian Parliament Called into Session

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union, preparing to uncover a big showcase of surprises on the 40th anniversary of the Communist revolution Nov. 7, today called Parliament to meet in a jubilee session Nov. 6.

Rehearsals for the Nov. 7 show have been going on for days now. The Soviet government has not hinted what it has up its sleeve in the way of military surprises.

Guesses range from an atomic cannon and massive rocket launchers to new type jet fighters and bombers.

Candidate Accused of Fund Misuse

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A candidate for the Board of Education has admitted he used a school bank account for personal checks, but says it was only as a convenience.

R. W. DeVore, former Roosevelt Junior High School principal, said Tuesday night he wrote checks on the school activities account to pay personal bills, but "always used my own money."

The Education Board Tuesday released a state auditor's report indicating DeVore had misused school funds.

The report said there was no shortage in DeVore's accounts, but the records were incomplete and confused.

The state auditor said that it was plain that the account had been used for personal business and that about $9,924 of DeVore's expenditures went through the account.

DeVore said he never tried to hide his use of the account and when he wrote a personal check, he put money to cover it in the school safe and deposited it in the account later.

Louisiana Community Is Hit by Tornado

OPELOUSAS, La. (AP) — A tornado smashed homes and trees Tuesday night as it swirled through Opelousas. Nineteen persons were injured.

State troopers said five or six homes were leveled.

The tornado struck about 10 p.m. and was accompanied by heavy rains. It cut a northward path from the Cypress Grave section of St. Landry Parish toward State Highway 31 about four miles east of Opelousas.

Ohio Prison Population May Hit 14,000 O'Neill Says

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's prison population may reach 14,000 within the next five years, Gov. C. William O'Neill said today. This would represent an increase of more than 25 per cent over the present population of approximately 11,000.

The governor made his prediction during ground-breaking ceremonies here for the new 12-million - dollar, 1,500-man Southern Ohio Reformatory.

"From the standpoint of numbers," Gov. O'Neill said, "Ohio today is ranked as the nation's third largest state prison system, surpassed only by New York and California. . . ."

"Our correctional administrators expect the penal population of the state to be about 13,000-14,000 within the next five years. Compare this with 6,600 inmates in our state penal institutions at the end of World War II, and you have a picture of the problem which has developed as a result of the crime wave that has engulfed the nation in recent years."

The new Lebanon institution will serve as a reformatory for youthful offenders between 16 and 30 committed from southern Ohio. It will be constructed in three phases with completion scheduled for 1960. The reformatory will be put into use, however, upon completion of the second phase in 1959 when 700 to 800 inmates will be housed there.

The first phase, to cost $3,175,186, includes the administration and hospital building, isolation and receiving cells, food service area, laundry, powerhouse and water treatment and sewage treatment plants.

Gov. O'Neill said the reformatory will be the first prison in Ohio to have only single cells.

Life of Sputnik Said Shortening

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government scientist says Russia's Sputnik, which has circled the earth for 12 days, may plunge from its orbit and burst into flames within a week.

That view, expressed by Robert Jastrow of the Naval Research Laboratory here, generally runs counter to other Western predictions that the satellite might remain aloft for several months, possibly a year.

However, a report broadcast by Moscow Monday night also indicated Sputnik likely would fall from outer space in a week.

Jastrow, a theoretical consultant at the naval laboratory, said there were indications Sputnik was losing altitude. On a recent pass over Washington, he added, the satellite's altitude was estimated at 147 miles.

Most previous estimates have had the orbit ranging from 170 miles up to about 560 miles.

"Based on its altitude, the way it looks at the moment the satellite might burn out in a week," he said. "It most probably will disintegrate and burn up, depending on its design and altitude."

* * *

JASTROW SAID that electromagnetic forces might possibly explain variations in Sputnik's orbit which have baffled some scientists.

There have been references to an "unknown force" which apparently was causing a slight sidewise drag on the sphere, creating difficulty in electronic computations of the orbit.

But in Cambridge, Mass., the director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said he is not yet convinced that any mysterious force is acting on the satellite. Dr. Fred L. Whipple said:

"We don't intend to, call on novel forces to account for the variance when we haven't exhausted the standard forces, that is, the combination of gravity and atmospheric drag.

"We can't say novel forces don't exist, but we prefer not to consider them until we have exhausted normal procedures and methods of analysis."

Sputnik apparently still was maintaining its speed of about 18,000 miles an hour as it circles the earth, accompanied by a section of its carrier rocket and a protective nose cone.

Whipple said he figures the rocket section now is circling the earth once every 95.7 minutes, about half a minute faster than on the launching date.

He said there are few reliable visual sightings of Sputnik, but that sightings of the rocket, which is larger, are pouring in.

Whipple added that at the present time, the observatory is concentrating entirely on the rocket.

Moscow radio said Tuesday the rocket is running 11 minutes, or 3,222 miles, ahead of Sputnik.

Defense Spending Boost Is Debated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The top two members of the House Appropriations Committee said today that Russia's launching of a satellite doesn't necessarily require increased U.S. defense spending.

What it does mean, said Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) and Rep. Taber (R-NY), senior GOP member of the committee, is that the United States must cease being complacent, stop underrating Soviet progress and concentrate on missile programs.

The two men probably have more to say about appropriations than any two other members of Congress. They agreed that the success of Russia's home - made moon had boosted Soviet prestige throughout the world and made it imperative that this country bolster its own defenses and the defenses of its foreign friends.

"I don't think it means that we must appropriate more money for defense, but rather that we must allocate our defense spending better," Cannon said. "The emphasis must be on the missile programs, for which we have appropriated liberally."

* *

TABER AGREED, saying, "There should not be too much difference between next year's defense budget and this year's."

"The Soviet satellite is not something to get too excited about," Taber added, "but it should wake us up that Russia is not as backward as some people seem to think."

The comments from Cannon and Taber differed from those of a number of Democrats, who, without specifically calling for increased defense spending, have criticized the administration's economy efforts in that area.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today the administration's defense plans appear to be based on "meeting the enemy at the seacoast with a balanced budget," and he added:

"The administration has let fiscal considerations determine our defense, when it should be just the other way around."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said the United States should initiate at once an emergency program to overhaul the Soviets in the missiles and satellite fields. He spoke out 24 hours after Sen. Symington (D-Mo) had expressed similar views, and about the same time as Rep. Brooks (D-La) urged appointment of a missile program czar to end what he called "service bickering, waste, overlapping of authority and inefficient management."

VICE PRESIDENT Nixon dropped a strong hint Tuesday night that the administration is shoving aside any plans for a tax cut in the 1958 congressional session.

Speaking in San Francisco, Nixon said the launching of Sputnik "will have rendered a signal service to the cause of freedom if only we react strongly and intelligently to its implications."

Then he declared: "Let us resolve once and for all that the absolute necessity of maintaining our superiority in military strength must always take priority over the understandable desire to reduce our taxes."

Diplomat Says Soviet To Be No 'Sanctuary'

Stiff Warning Issued To Syria, Russia as Plea Is Made in U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States must be on guard against the possibility of an attack by Syria and Russia against Turkey.

Dulles said that in event of such an attack the United States would not leave the Soviet Union as a privileged sanctuary.

Along with his grim warning, Dulles said he thinks an outbreak of war in the Middle East is unlikely, largely because of the United Nations' focus of attention on the area.

In the United Nations today, Syria called for an urgent U. N. inquiry into an "intolerably dangerous" situation on the Turkish-Syrian border.

The move was made by Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar, who charged that concentration of Turkish troops along Syria's border "presages imminent attack."

* * *

HE ASKED the U. N. General Assembly to act urgently on what he called "threats to the security of Syria and to international peace."

There was no immediate reaction from the U. S. delegation, but informed quarters expressed belief the United States would oppose putting the question on the 82-nation Assembly's agenda.

In Damascus Tuesday, the Syred foreign diplomats and presented foreign diplomats and presented a declaration that Turkey intends to "launch a premeditated action against Syria."

Earlier, Egyptian reinforcements had arrived in Syria.

Turkey handed a letter to U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold late Tuesday accusing the Syrian government of echoing Soviet propaganda attacks on the Turkish government.

Much of the news conference with Dulles today dealt with recent threats by Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev against Turkey. Khrushchev has based his belligerent talk on the idea that Turkey is threatening to attack Syria, pro-Soviet Arab nation in the Midedl East.

Dulles was asked to be more specific about what he had in mind as to U. S. reaction in the event of an attack on Turkey. He was asked particularly to say whether he meant that the United States would attack any nation which started an aggression against Turkey.

Lion-Hurricane Grid Game Casualty

Flu Hits Hard In Nearby Towns

Fayette County has thus far escaped the flue bug which has hit Wilmington, Sabina and Clarksville in this area. Some of these communities have reported illness in near epidemic proportions.

The Washington High School homecoming football game scheduled for Friday night at Gardner Park here with the Hurricane from Wilmington has been postponed until Nov. 15 because of illness among Wilmington students. The action was taken Wednesday morning.

Nearly one-third of the pupils enrolled in Wilmington schools were absent from classes Tuesday morning; 247 of the 620 students were reported out Wednesday morning.

In the Sabina school, absenteeism was about 12 per cent Tuesday morning, somewhat above normal. Vernon Runyan, school administrator, reported that 78 of the school's 636 students were absent. Twenty-nine were absent from the upper six grades, and 49 were absent from the lower six grades.

In Washington C. H., however, school attendance was reported near normal. Kaye Blosser, principal of the high school said Wednesday morning that only 48 of the school's 870 students were absent. "That is somewhat above normal," Blosser said, "but we have no idea how many of those absent have the flu."

* * *

WALTER W. BOYER, Superintendent of the Miami Trace schools said that most of the schools had "5 per cent or less absenteeism. "Unfortunately," Boyer said, "we do have some chicken pox, scarletina and mumps in the schools right now."

The county Health Department said it had no report of any Asian flu in Fayette County.

Miss Christene Evans, administrator of Memorial Hospital, said Wednesday morning that the hospital had no flu patients. "We just hope this situation continues," Miss Evans said.

* * *

CONFUSION seems to exist as to whether flu in the other cities is just ordinary influenza or the new Asian Flu. The American red Cross has issued suggestions for treatment of Asian flu. The first thing to do, according to the Red Cross, is to report the illness to a physician.

Most patients may be treated at home, but the patient should be confined to bed, isolated from others with colds or sore throat and be given plenty of fluids while the fever persists. Patients should be served a soft diet during their confinement, the Red Cross advises.

Symptoms of Asian flu include high fever up to 103 or 104 degrees, suddenness of attack, headache, muscular soreness and sometimes sore throat and coughing.

Ohio Students By Thousands Hit by Illness

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Students by the thousands were forced to stay away from classes today as outbreaks of influenza caused shutdowns in schools in scattered sections of Ohio.

Flu struck elementary and high schools alike. In some areas hit by the disease, absenteeism was high but school officials at least for the time being, decided to continue classes. A number of schools may shut down if absenteeism increases, officials said.

In Mansfield, 10,000 students were sent home Tuesday and told to stay away until Monday.

With more than one third of the student body out, Canton's St. Joseph's parochial school ordered a similar shutdown until Monday.

Cincinnati's St. Vivian Elementary School closed for the remainder of the week.

Also closed until Monday are Madison Twp. High School in Richland County, Mifflin Elementary School in Mifflin, all Fairfield Twp. schools, and all schools in Coshen, Clermont County.

Similarly ordered closed until Monday are Oakwood School in Paulding County, Farmer School in Defiance County, and both the elementary and high school at Butler in Richmond County.

Although the flu incidence was reported high in schools in parts of Canton, Chillicothe, Columbus and Middletown, school officials there are continuing classes.

63 in Spain Die During Record Flood

VALENCIA, pain (AP) — In the first sunshine in nearly a week, rescue workers today searched for additional victims of floods that killed at least 63 percons. More than 50 were missing.

Thousands were left homeless by the worst floods in modern Spanish history, over a 150-mile-long stretch of fertile Mediterranean coastline.

Drinking water still had to be purified but quick aid from Madrid, Barcelona and other Spanish cities restored the food supply to normal. About 180 tons of American food stocks were expected from Madrid.

Seven helicopters from the U.S. aircraft carrier Lake Champlain helped evacuate people.

AFL-CIO Seen Postponing Ouster of Teamster Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility was raised today that the scandal-tainted Teamsters Union may escape suspension from the AFL-CIO if the union is put under the hand of a court-appointed receiver.

James R. Hoffa has been elected president of the giant union, succeeding Dave Beck. But his plans to take over the 1½-million-member organization right away have been stopped by a federal court order.

The court order remains in effect pending a hearing Monday before Federal Dist. Judge F Dickinson Letts on the legality of the convention which elected Hoffa. The court has been asked to name a receiver to take charge of the union temporarily.

Well-placed sources in the AFL-CIO said it is unlikely to make much difference to the powerful AFL-CIO Executive Council, when it meets to deal with the Teamsters situation Oct. 24, whether Beck or Hoffa is nominally the union's boss.

* * *

WITH EITHER man as Teamsters president, the council led by AFL-CIO President George Meany is expected to suspend the Teamsters from AFL-CIO membership and recommend that the AFL-CIO convention next December expel the federation's largest affiliate.

Both Hoffa and Beck have been formally labeled by the council as corrupt and unfit to remain in organized labor. This decision was based on testimony involving both men developed before the Senate Rackets Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark).

But the council might postpone any suspension action if the court took the union's affairs out of the hands of both Beck and Hoffa and put them in charge of a court-named receiver charged with running a clean union.

Judge Letts will consider the receivership request at the hearing here next Monday. He is to decide then whether to convert the present restraining order against Hoffa's taking office into a preliminary injunction.

Meanwhile, it was reliably reported that Teamsters attorneys have decided against going to a higher court to try to upset Judge Letts' restraining order.

They are pinning their hopes on next Monday's hearing, hoping the plaintiff New York Teamsters members will be unable to prove their charges that delegates to the Teamsters' Miami Beach convention were hand-picked to assure Hoffa's election.

"The administration has let fiscal considerations determine our defense, when it should be just the other way around."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said the United States should initiate at once an emergency program to overhaul the Soviets in the missiles and satellite fields. He spoke out 24 hours after Sen. Symington (D-Mo) had expressed similar views, and about the same time as Rep. Brooks (D-La) urged appointment of a missile program czar to end what he called "service bickering, waste, overlapping of authority and inefficient management."

VICE PRESIDENT Nixon dropped a strong hint Tuesday night that the administration is shoving aside any plans for a tax cut in the 1958 congressional session.

Speaking in San Francisco, Nixon said the launching of Sputnik "will have rendered a signal service to the cause of freedom if only we react strongly and intelligently to its implications."

Then he declared: "Let us resolve once and for all that the absolute necessity of maintaining our superiority in military strength must always take priority over the understandable desire to reduce our taxes."

Candidate Accused of Fund Misuse

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A candidate for the Board of Education has admitted he used a school bank account for personal checks, but says it was only as a convenience.

R. W. DeVore, former Roosevelt Junior High School principal, said Tuesday night he wrote checks on the school activities account to pay personal bills, but "always used my own money."

The Education Board Tuesday released a state auditor's report indicating DeVore had misused school funds.

The report said there was no shortage in DeVore's accounts, but the records were incomplete and confused.

The state auditor said that it was plain that the account had been used for personal business and that about $9,924 of DeVore's expenditures went through the account.

DeVore said he never tried to hide his use of the account and when he wrote a personal check, he put money to cover it in the school safe and deposited it in the account later.

Sitter Finds Baby Is Tough Customer

CINCINNATI (AP) — It was a brisk afternoon for 6-year - old Michael Schaible Jr., who, police said, shot his baby-sitter, Mrs. Naomi Babe, 45, in the right arm.

Investigators said Mrs. Babe found Michael holding a .22-caliber rifle. and said he told her: "This gun is loaded: if you come in I'll shoot you." Thinking it was a toy, she walked in unafraid. The rifle discharged, striking her in the forearm.

Mrs. Babe was released after hospital treatment, but police took over her baby-sitting chore temporarily.

Ohio Prison Population May Hit 14,000 O'Neill Says

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's prison population may reach 14,000 within the next five years, Gov. C. William O'Neill said today. This would represent an increase of more than 25 per cent over the present population of approximately 11,000.

The governor made his prediction during ground-breaking ceremonies here for the new 12-million - dollar, 1,500-man Southern Ohio Reformatory.

"From the standpoint of numbers," Gov. O'Neill said, "Ohio today is ranked as the nation's third largest state prison system, surpassed only by New York and California. . . ."

"Our correctional administrators expect the penal population of the state to be about 13,000-14,000 within the next five years. Compare this with 6,600 inmates in our state penal institutions at the end of World War II, and you have a picture of the problem which has developed as a result of the crime wave that has engulfed the nation in recent years."

The new Lebanon institution will serve as a reformatory for youthful offenders between 16 and 30 committed from southern Ohio. It will be constructed in three phases with completion scheduled for 1960. The reformatory will be put into use, however, upon completion of the second phase in 1959 when 700 to 800 inmates will be housed there.

The first phase, to cost $3,175,-186, includes the administration and hospital building, isolation and receiving cells, food service area, laundry, powerhouse and water treatment and sewage treatment plants.

Gov. O'Neill said the reformatory will be the first prison in Ohio to have only single cells.

Lion-Hurricane Grid Game Casualty

Flu Hits Hard In Nearby Towns

Fayette County has thus far escaped the flue bug which has hit Wilmington, Sabina and Clarksville in this area. Some of these communities have reported illness in near epidemic proportions.

The Washington High School homecoming football game scheduled for Friday night at Gardner Park here with the Hurricane from Wilmington has been postponed until Nov. 15 because of illness among Wilmington students. The action was taken Wednesday morning.

Nearly one-third of the pupils enrolled in Wilmington schools were absent from classes Tuesday morning; 247 of the 620 students were reported out Wednesday morning.

In the Sabina school, absenteeism was about 12 per cent Tuesday morning, somewhat above normal. Vernon Runyan, school administrator, reported that 78 of the school's 636 students were absent. Twenty-nine were absent from the upper six grades, and 49 were absent from the lower six grades.

In Washington C. H., however. school attendance was reported near normal. Kaye Blosser, principal of the high school said Wednesday morning that only 48 of the school's 870 students were absent. "That is somewhat above normal," Blosser said, "but we have no idea how many of those absent have the flu."

* * *

WALTER W. BOYER, Superintendent of the Miami Trace schools said that most of the schools had "5 per cent or less absenteeism. "Unfortunately," Boyer said, "we do have some chicken pox, scarletina and mumps in the schools right now."

The county Health Department said it had no report of any Asian flu in Fayette County.

Miss Christene Evans, administrator of Memorial Hospital, said Wednesday morning that the hospital had no flu patients. "We just hope this situation continues," Miss Evans said.

* * *

CONFUSION seems to exist as to whether flu in the other cities is just ordinary influenza or the new Asian Flu. The American red Cross has issued suggestions for treatment of Asian flu. The first thing to do, according to the Red Cross, is to report the illness to a physician.

Most patients may be treated at home, but the patient should be confined to bed, isolated from others with colds or sore throat and be given plenty of fluids while the fever persists. Patients should be served a soft diet during their confinement, the Red Cross advises.

Symptoms of Asian flu include high fever up to 103 or 104 degrees, suddenness of attack, headache, muscular soreness and sometimes sore throat and coughing.

Ohio Students By Thousands Hit by Illness

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Students by the thousands were forced to stay away from classes today as outbreaks of influenza caused shutdowns in schools in scattered sections of Ohio.

Flu struck elementary and high schools alike. In some areas hit by the disease, absenteeism was high but school officials at least for the time being, decided to continue classes. A number of schools may shut down if absenteeism increases, officials said.

In Mansfield, 10,000 students were sent home Tuesday and told to stay away until Monday.

With more than one third of the student body out, Canton's St. Joseph's parochial school ordered a similar shutdown until Monday.

Cincinnati's St. Vivian Elementary School closed for the remainder of the week.

Also closed until Monday are Madison Twp. High School in Richland County, Mifflin Elementary School in Mifflin, all Fairfield Twp. schools, and all schools in Coshen, Clermont County.

Similarly ordered closed until Monday are Oakwood School in Paulding County, Farmer School in Defiance County, and both the elementary and high school at Butler in Richmond County.

Although the flu incidence was reported high in schools in parts of Canton, Chillicothe, Columbus and Middletown, school officials there are continuing classes.

63 in Spain Die During Record Flood

VALENCIA, pain (AP) — In the first sunshine in nearly a week, rescue workers today searched for additional victims of floods that killed at least 63 percons. More than 50 were missing.

Thousands were left homeless by the worst floods in modern Spanish history, over a 150-mile-long stretch of fertile Mediterranean coastline.

Drinking water still had to be purified but quick aid from Madrid, Barcelona and other Spanish cities restored the food supply to normal. About 180 tons of American food stocks were expected from Madrid.

Seven helicopters from the U.S. aircraft carrier Lake Champlain helped evacuate people.

AFL-CIO Seen Postponing Ouster of Teamster Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility was raised today that the scandal-tainted Teamsters Union may escape suspension from the AFL-CIO if the union is put under the hand of a court-appointed receiver.

James R. Hoffa has been elected president of the giant union, succeeding Dave Beck. But his plans to take over the 1½-million-member organization right away have been stopped by a federal court order.

The court order remains in effect pending a hearing Monday before Federal Dist. Judge F Dickinson Letts on the legality of the convention which elected Hoffa. The court has been asked to name a receiver to take charge of the union temporarily.

Well-placed sources in the AFL-CIO said it is unlikely to make much difference to the powerful AFL-CIO Executive Council, when it meets to deal with the Teamsters situation Oct. 24, whether Beck or Hoffa is nominally the union's boss.

* * *

WITH EITHER man as Teamsters president, the council led by AFL-CIO President George Meany is expected to suspend the Teamsters from AFL-CIO membership and recommend that the AFL-CIO convention next December expel the federation's largest affiliate.

Both Hoffa and Beck have been formally labeled by the council as corrupt and unfit to remain in organized labor. This decision was based on testimony involving both men developed before the Senate Rackets Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark).

But the council might postpone any suspension action if the court took the union's affairs out of the hands of both Beck and Hoffa and put them in charge of a court-named receiver charged with running a clean union.

Judge Letts will consider the receivership request at the hearing here next Monday. He is to decide then whether to convert the present restraining order against Hoffa's taking office into a preliminary injunction.

Meanwhile, it was reliably reported that Teamsters attorneys have decided against going to a higher court to try to upset Judge Letts' restraining order.

They are pinning their hopes on next Monday's hearing, hoping the plaintiff New York Teamsters members will be unable to prove their charges that delegates to the Teamsters' Miami Beach convention were hand-picked to assure Hoffa's election.

Youth Sentenced To Reformatory For Burglaries

A year-old who has admitted being a partner in five burglaries and a jeep theft was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory Wednesday by Judge Robert L. Brubaker in Juvenile Court.

The Court declined to disclose the youth's name.

A companion, Richard Downard, 18, of 647 Harrison St., was bound over to the grand jury Monday under $8,000 bond on two burglary charges and a charge of jeep theft. He pleaded guilty.

Both have prior records for breaking and entering.

* * *

THEY ADMITTED to sheriff's officers taking part in break-ins at the Rogers Trucking Co. and the H. A. Link & Co. Gas Equipment Co. on Route 22 west last Thursday. Also admitted were breaks at the Wilson Hardware Co. Lumber Division Office, 212 W. Oak St., the Rhoads Heating Service Co., 202 W. Oak St., and the Thornhill Battery Shop, 319 W. Temple St.

Total haul was about $150.

The jeep, parked behind the trucking office, belonged to Loren Coil, Rogers truck driver, who was out of town at the time. It was stolen Thursday night and recovered by sheriff's officers on Stuckey Rd. Friday morning.

Downard was held to the grand jury for the Rogers and the Link break-ins.

Diplomat Says

key by the Soviet Union, Dulles said, it would not mean merely a defensive operation by the United States with the Soviet Union as a privileged sanctuary.

During the Korean War the phrase "privileged sanctuary" meant the China area north of the Yalu River from which Red planes took off to attack U. N. forces but where their bases were not subject to attack.

Dulles thus seemed to be saying, though he stated it negatively, that the United States would fight to defend Turkey if Turkey was attacked and it would strike directly at Soviet territory.

Dulles ruled out any direct negotiations between the United States and Russia to carve up the world and establish what he called an overlordship of other nations.

He said the Soviets have long awaited a Moscow - Washington deal to that end, but he said the United States and Russia are not the only powers in the world and this country would have nothing to do with trying to tell other countries what to do.

At the same time, he said that meetings such as his recent talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko are useful because they lead to better understanding by Russian and American leaders of opposing policies.

Harlow said. Both of them were solicitors in the rural area, he noted.

HARLOW singled out one employe group for special commendation. Participating in the Community Chest by employes of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., he said, was 100 per cent. Every one of the company's 67 employes here contributed, he said, to the group's total of $396.50. This, he pointed out, is an average of nearly $5.92 apiece and noted that the total contributed by the group this year is 41 per cent more than its contribution last year.

Miss Mary Jo Cullen handled the solicitation among the telephone company's employes. Miss Cullen emphasized that all of the contribution came from the employes and that the company will make an additional contribution.

Testimony Awaited In Trial of Mutes

ST. CLAIRSVILLE (AP) — Testimony is expected to begin today in the first degree murder trial of two deaf mutes accused of killing Mrs. Mary Denham, 76.

Mrs. Denham, a gasoline station operator, was beaten and stabbed to death April 10. Police said the deaf mutes, Joseph Buza, 20, and his brother Burt, 17, of nearby Burton, visited Mrs. Denham April 10 to settle a family bill.

Attorneys for the brothers indicated Tuesday they will try to prove the two are insane. They claim that the slaying was "not normal," and "the act of subnormal minds."

U. S. Spending Stampede Eyed

Business Leader Calls For More Efficiency

CINCINNATI (AP)—The president of the U.S. chamber of commerce said today Russia's Sputnik is not sufficient reason "to stampede the Defense Department into reviving every one of its pet projects that has been shelved."

Philip M. Talbott, a Washington businessman, added:

"Certain persons in high positions in Washington, including a number of members of Congress and unofficial spokesmen for the armed services, would have you believe that the economy drive in the past session of Congress has virtually scuttled our guided middile program. That, of course, is not true."

In a speech prepared for the National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Assn., Talbott said the major issue is not lack of funds.

"The basic problem," he went on, "is simply inadequate organization and inadequate management of the manpower and fiscal resources allotted for this purpose.

"The problem stems from the failure of top officials to eliminate the bitter, costly and dangerous competition among the various branches of the armed services for domination of the guided missile program."

* * *

TALBOTT SAID nearly $3 billion is being spent on guided missiles in the current fiscal year. That, he added, amounts to a 1,200 per cent increase over the $250 million spent for the same purpose two years ago.

He said the armed forces should have all the money necessary for them to keep ahead of Russian techonological advances.

"But, until and unless, top defense officials, with the backing of influential members of Congress, take the steps that are necessary to insure more effective utilization of the funds that are already being provided for research and development, our defense problem cannot be solved," he said.

Imported Arrows For Maryland Is Cause of Ruckus

BALTIMORE (AP) — A tribal ruckus now surrounds Gov. McKeldin who planned to give Queen Elizabeth II two Oklahoma Indian arrows.

The governor said he would give the Queen the arrows Saturday at the Maryland football game in College Park. He said the gift is partial payment of an old Maryland debt to the Crown.

The Natural History Society of Maryland sounded the war drums Tuesday in a letter to McKeldin.

President Elva M. Palmer said the society had Maryland Indian arrows dating back to the 17th century.

McKeldin had said he was getting the arrows from Oklahoma.

Maryland's colonial charter of 1632 required that one fifth of all gold and silver discovered in Maryland plus two Indian arrows be shipped to the Crown each year.

Italians Offer Aid for Starving Greyhound Pack

GENOA, Italy (AP)—Requests to take care of 131 hungry racing dogs are pouring into Genoa port offices by the hundreds.

Altogether 138 pureblooded greyhounds arrived here a week ago from Alexandria, Egypt. But seven died of starvation. A dog-breeding firm in Milan had ordered them, but it went out of business before they arrived.

The officers of the firm could not be located, and port authorities refused to let the dogs out of a shack in the port area until someone could supply proper documents and $4,000 in customs duties.

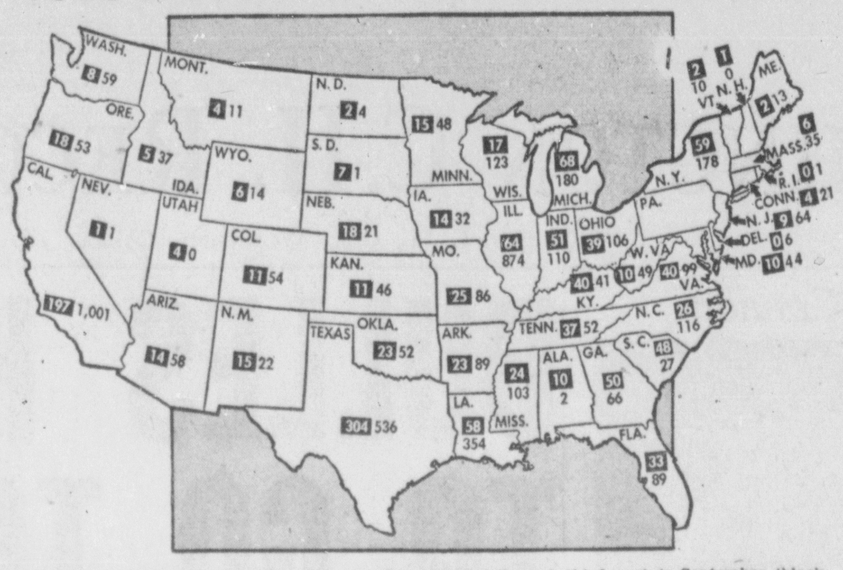

When the plight of the animals became public, offers to take charge of the dogs or to help feed them started pouring in.

H-Bomb Tests Set

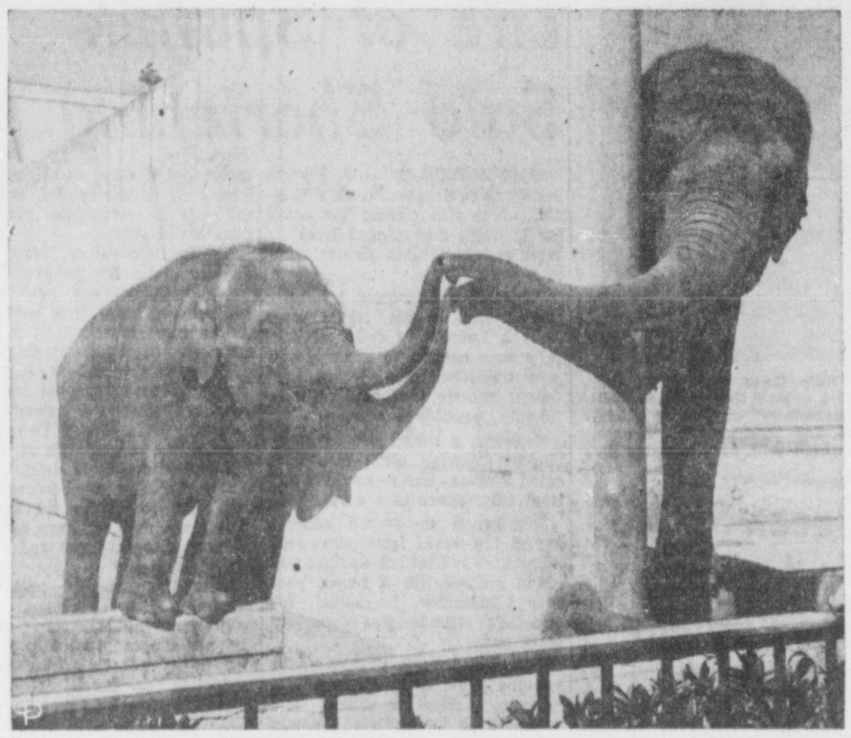

LONDON (AP)—The News Chronicle said today Britain will carry out a new series of hydrogen bomb tests over Christmas Island this winter, adding that "the bombs will be designed as warheads for intercontinental rockets."

Youth Sentenced To Reformatory For Burglaries

A year-old who has admitted being a partner in five burglaries and a jeep theft was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory Wednesday by Judge Robert L. Brubaker in Juvenile Court.

The Court declined to disclose the youth's name.

A companion, Richard Downard, 18 of 647 Harrison St., was bound over to the grand jury Monday under $8,000 bond on two burglary charges and a charge of jeep theft. He pleaded guilty.

Both have prior records for breaking and entering.

* * *

THEY ADMITTED to sheriff's officers taking part in break-ins at the Rogers Trucking Co. and the H. A. Link & Co. Gas Equipment Co. on Route 22 west last Thursday. Also admitted were breaks at the Wilson Hardware Co. Lumber Division Office, 212 W. Oak St., the Rhoads Heating Service Co., 202 W. Oak St., and the Thornhill Battery Shop, 319 W. Temple St.

Total haul was about $150.

The jeep, parked behind the trucking office, belonged to Loren Coil, Rogers truck driver, who was out of town at the time. It was stolen Thursday night and recovered by sheriff's officers on Stuckey Rd. Friday morning.

Downard was held to the grand jury for the Rogers and the Link break-ins.

Diplomat Says

key by the Soviet Union, Dulles said, it would not mean merely a defensive operation by the United States with the Soviet Union as a privileged sanctuary.

During the Korean War the phrase "privileged sanctuary" meant the China area north of the Yalu River from which Red planes took off to attack U. N. forces but where their bases were not subject to attack.

Dulles thus seemed to be saying, though he stated it negatively, that the United States would fight to defend Turkey if Turkey was attacked and it would strike directly at Soviet territory.

Dulles ruled out any direct negotiations between the United States and Russia to carve up the world and establish what he called an overlordship of other nations.

He said the Soviets have long awaited a Moscow - Washington deal to that end, but he said the United States and Russia are not the only powers in the world and this country would have nothing to do with trying to tell other countries what to do.

At the same time, he said that meetings such as his recent talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko are useful because they lead to better understanding by Russian and American leaders of opposing policies.

Waterlogged Texas To Get More Rain

DALLAS (AP) — More rain was forecast for Texas, already water-logged from three days of storm.

The rains tapered off Tuesday night and early today but weathermen promised more.

At least seven deaths are blamed on the violent weather since Sunday. Four died in auto crashed on slick highways, three others drowned. Tornadoes injured three Monday.

Tuesday's rainfall hit hardest in southeast Texas, around Houston and Beaumont, and in south and east Texas. In Houston, water crept into many homes.

Harlow said. Both of them were solicitors in the rural area, he noted.

* * *

HARLOW singled out one employe group for special commendation. Participating in the Community Chest by employes of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., he said, was 100 per cent. Every one of the company's 67 employes here contributed, he said, to the group's total of $396.50. This, he pointed out, is an average of nearly $5.92 apiece and noted that the total contributed by the group this year is 41 per cent more than its contribution last year.

Miss Mary Jo Cullen handled the solicitation among the telephone company's employes. Miss Cullen emphasized that all of the contribution came from the employes and that the company will make an additional contribution.

Testimony Awaited In Trial of Mutes

ST. CLAIRSVILLE (AP) — Testimony is expected to begin today in the first degree murder trial of two deaf mutes accused of killing Mrs. Mary Denham, 76.

Mrs. Denham, a gasoline station operator, was beaten and stabbed to death April 10. Police said the deaf mutes, Joseph Buza, 20, and his brother Burt, 17, of nearby Burton, visited Mrs. Denham April 10 to settle a family bill.

Attorneys for the brothers indicated Tuesday they will try to prove the two are insane. They claim that the slaying was "not normal," and "the act of subnormal minds."

U. S. Spending Stampede Eyed

Business Leader Calls For More Efficiency

CINCINNATI (AP)—The president of the U.S. chamber of commerce said today Russia's Sputnik is not sufficient reason "to stampede the Defense Department into reviving every one of its pet projects that has been shelved."

Philip M. Talbott, a Washington businessman, added:

"Certain persons in high positions in Washington, including a number of members of Congress and unofficial spokesmen for the armed services, would have you believe that the economy drive in the past session of Congress has virtually scuttled our guided middle program. That, of course, is not true."

In a speech prepared for the National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Assn., Talbott said the major issue is not lack of funds.

"The basic problem," he went on, "is simply inadequate organization and inadequate management of the manpower and fiscal resources allotted for this purpose.

"The problem stems from the failure of top officials to eliminate the bitter, costly and dangerous competition among the various branches of the armed services for domination of the guided missile program."

* * *

TALBOTT SAID nearly $3 billion is being spent on guided missiles in the current fiscal year. That, he added, amounts to a 1,200 per cent increase over the $250 million spent for the same purpose two years ago.

He said the armed forces should have all the money necessary for them to keep ahead of Russian techonological advances.

"But, until and unless, top defense officials, with the backing of influential members of Congress, take the steps that are necessary to insure more effective utilization of the funds that are already being provided for research and development, our defense problem cannot be solved," he said.

Imported Arrows For Maryland Is Cause of Ruckus

BALTIMORE (AP) — A tribal ruckus now surrounds Gov. McKeldin who planned to give Queen Elizabeth II two Oklahoma Indian arrows.

The governor said he would give the Queen the arrows Saturday at the Maryland football game in College Park. He said the gift is partial payment of an old Maryland debt to the Crown.

The Natural History Society of Maryland sounded the war drums Tuesday in a letter to McKeldin.

President Elva M. Palmer said the society had Maryland Indian arrows dating back to the 17th century.

McKeldin had said he was getting the arrows from Oklahoma.

Maryland's colonial charter of 1632 required that one fifth of all gold and silver discovered in Maryland plus two Indian arrows be shipped to the Crown each year.

Italians Offer Aid for Starving Greyhound Pack

GENOA, Italy (AP)—Requests to take care of 131 hungry racing dogs are pouring into Genoa port offices by the hundreds.

Altogether 138 pureblooded greyhounds arrived here a week ago from Alexandria, Egypt. But seven died of starvation. A dog-breeding firm in Milan had ordered them, but it went out of business before they arrived.

The officers of the firm could not be located, and port authorities refused to let the dogs out of a shack in the port area until someone could supply proper documents and $4,000 in customs duties.

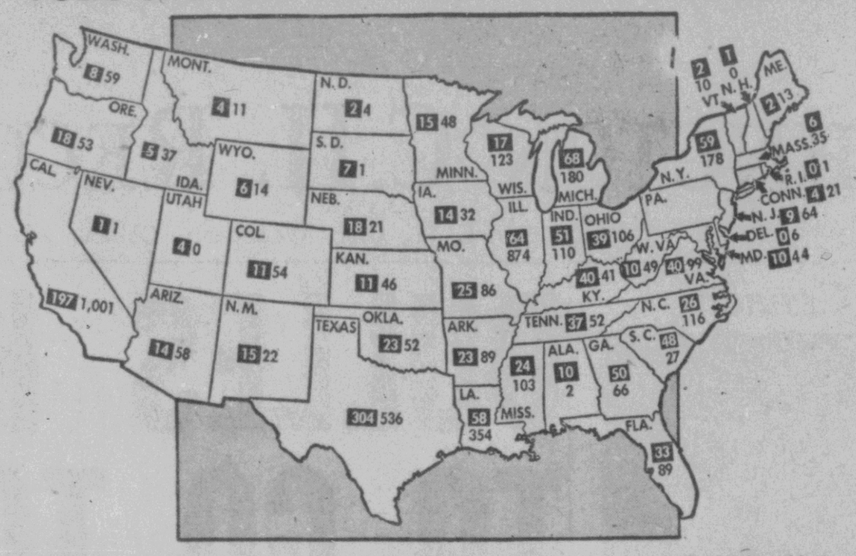

When the plight of the animals became public, offers to take charge of the dogs or to help feed them started pouring in.

H-Bomb Tests Set

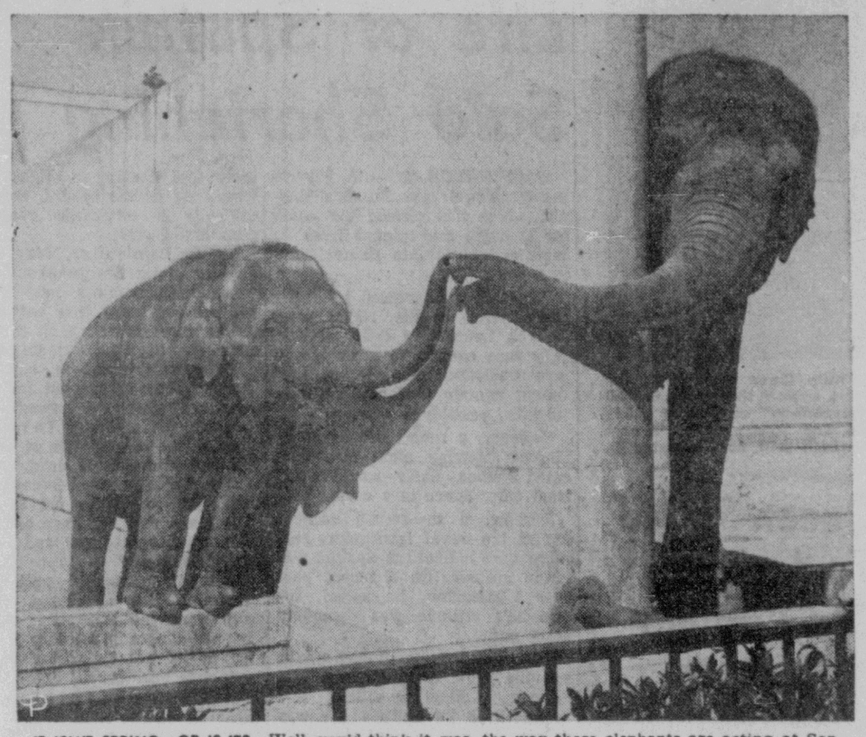

LONDON (AP)—The News Chronicle said today Britain will carry out a new series of hydrogen bomb tests over Christmas Island this winter, adding that "the bombs will be designed as warheads for intercontinental rockets."

Atlantic City is built on an island, one mile wide and 10 miles in length. It was a deserted island until 1852.

Oklahoma Bond Issue Vote Tally Is Close

MADILL, Okla. (AP) — Residents here voted on a $15,000 bond issue to finance a new fire engine which the City Council has already purchased. The vote was tied at 293 for and 293 against. A simple majority was needed to pass.

A proposed $85,000 bond issue to buy equipment for City Hall was defeated by one vote, 294-293. City commissioners are considering a recount.

Hostesses Pleased By South Pole Trip

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP)—Two American air hostesses who went on the first commercial plane flight to the Antarctic returned today delighted with their reception by 301 ice-bound men.

Ruth Kelly, formerly of Houston, Tex., and Patricia Hepinstall, formerly of Holyoke, Colo., said they were especially impressed by 83 men at McMurdo sound who hadn't seen a woman in 6 to 18 months.

"Everyone was so gentlemanly," Miss Kelly commented. "We each had an escort."

The two hostesses flew from Christchurch to McMurdo Tuesday on a Pan American Stratocruiser that took 37 U. S. Seabees for duty in the Antarctic.

Negro Woman Attorney Fascinated by Federal Job

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cora M. Brown, young Detroit Negro attorney who is the newest woman appointee to an important government post and one of the few of her race to reach such status, says she's "fascinated" to be a part of the federal government.

The new special associate of the general counsel of the U.S. Postoffice Department served two terms in the Michigan Senate (1952-56), and for the past 10 years has been active in community work and politics in Detroit.

An "Eisenhower Democrat," she ran for Congress in 1956, but was defeated by Rep. Thaddeus Machrowicz, also a Democrat.

"I never dreamed of the magnitude of the federal government's departments like the Postoffice," she told me shortly after her arrival here. "Even with a bird's eye view, it's a big operation and offers a tremendous opportunity, as well as great responsibility."

Right now, Miss Brown is spending all her time learning the ropes of her office which includes research and recommendations on cases involving violations of postal regulations on obscene literature, frauds in advertising matter sent through the mails, and actions against the postal service.

Born in Bessemer, Ala., Miss Brown attended Fiske College in Nashville, Tenn., and after working with various welfare agencies for 10 years, entered Wayne University in Detroit and was graduated from its law school in 1948.

She says she first developed an interest in law during her five years with the Detroit police department where she was engaged in law enforcement and helped in the preparation of prosecution in court cases in the women's division.

"I've always been tremendously interested in the legislative branch of government," she said. "That's why I ran for Congress. It's a place where you can do something about issues directly."

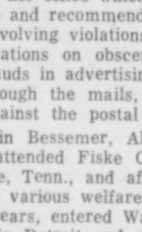

In discussing the segregation issue, she said:

"Where you find intolerance or discrimination, it's not restrictive. It's a question of degree in many areas. The closer we come to facing this, the closer we'll come to solving it. The more things you can tie a problem to, and the less personal and emotional you are about it, the more groups you'll find working together for the American way."

Negro Woman Attorney Fascinated by Federal Job

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cora M. Brown, young Detroit Negro attorney who is the newest woman appointee to an important government post and one of the few of her race to reach such status, says she's "fascinated" to be a part of the federal government.

The new special associate of the general counsel of the U.S. Postoffice Department served two terms in the Michigan Senate (1952-56), and for the past 10 years has been active in community work and politics in Detroit.

An "Eisenhower Democrat," she ran for Congress in 1956, but was defeated by Rep. Thaddeus Machrowicz, also a Democrat.

"I never dreamed of the magnitude of the federal government's departments like the Postoffice," she told me shortly after her arrival here. "Even with a bird's eye view, it's a big operation and offers a tremendous opportunity, as well as great responsibility."

Politicians Helped Stir Up Race Trouble

Although there has been some letdown as to evidence of open violence and mob spirit in Arkansas and other southern states over the school integration issue, there is apparent a deep and seething under current of bad feeling.

Possibly there is just about as much talk concerning this question in a number of northern states as there has been in the South.

This disquieting problem, to a considerable degree, owes its beginning to a part of that element of our population known as politicians. Whenever some irrational disturbance seems to appear in our economic or political life, the roots of the trouble usually can be traced to some of the professional politicians.

These so - called practical politicians— as distinguished from statesmen— are primarily interested in votes. They are for or against any measure, as a rule, either because it makes or loses votes in their judgement, or sometimes because it means personal profit to them.

At the present time there are a number of states in the North where there are very large numbers of what are known as minority groups. For instance, Labor is one such group— very often affected as a unit by political issues.

This is also true of foreign groups— great numbers of people who have come into our midst and are not yet wholly absorbed and who vote one way or another according to the influence of the ties that bind them to nations or groups in other parts of the world.

The recent unhappy disturbances over school issues in the South, probably have been stirred up, not so much by the Negroes in the South as by the white and colored politicians in both South and North. There are half a dozen American states in the North where there is a large Negro population.

There are also large masses of various racial and religious groups— many of them rather recent newcomers to our country. These immense masses of votes in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Illinois and some other states, can be easily aroused by problems which affect them in their racial, religious or economic conditions.

Political observers recognize how easy it is to start campaigns of hate among many of such groups.

This whole school integration matter will require time, common sense, tolerance and above all calm thinking, before it is solved to the point of avoiding future trouble.

Meantime firmness is necessary in handling those who seek to arouse violent action and who do not want to see safe and quiet efforts toward solution, become successful.

Rumba Is Barnyard Courtship

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That the rumba began in Cuba as a symbolic dance portraying the barnyard courtship between the rooster and the hen.

That some primitive tribes living by the sea use the teeth of sharks as razors. And how are you fixed for sharks?

That long fingernails among the Chinese were a sign they belonged to the leisure class, which also may explain why so many stenographers like to wear them long.

That in Britain 93 per cent of all homes have running water; in America, alas, the figure is only 85.9.

That "The Ballad of Davy Crocket" is considered the fastest selling record in history — more than 6 million disks during its first six months on the market.

That in Greece the dough for the bread to be served at a wedding is kneaded in public—and friends of the bride and groom toss gifts of money into it.

That a favorite maxim of the U. S. Air Force is this: "There are old pilots and bold pilots, but few old bold pilots."

That the Encyclopedia Britannica isn't British and never has been; it was founded in 1771 by three Scots.

That human hair for wigs often comes from nunneries and convents, where novices crop their hair before taking the veil.

That 17 of the present 32 states of Europe were non existent only 100 years ago.

That in consuming your food you chew about five million times a year. If you doubt this, get a small notebook and keep count.

That the hummingbird is the only bird which can fly backward.

That, of course you knew this all the time, yak's milk is pink.

That it's durn near impossible to sneeze with your eyes open.

That you are probably an idiot as an "idiot" originally meant "a private citizen who did not hold office."

That if automation has you worried, you might recall Elbert Hubbard's dictum: "One machine can do the work of 50 ordinary men. No machine can do the work of the extraordinary man."

That medical science now has classified 47 kinds of headache and we have them all on Monday mornings.

That the Russians can't very well claim the "H" bomb; their alphabet has no letter "H."

That, if you feel unappreciated, remember what Socrates said: "No evil can happen to a good man, either in life or after death."

Arkansas and Gov. Faubus

By George Sokolsky

It is impossible to understand an event without some recognition of the environment in which the events occurs.

Recently I wrote on the nature of the Arkansas population. The United States is composed of so many varieties of peoples, so many different combinations of folks, that any generalization about the American people proves to be incorrect in some locality.

Therefore I was especially grateful when an editor of the "Arkansas Democrat" of Little Rock wrote to me about his state, which is now internationally so newsworthy. He wrote:

"The institution of slavery came to Arkansas long before statehood. John Law's German and French Catholic colonists under a Jewish manager brought the first Negro slaves to Arkansas Post in 1719 where Henri De Tonti in 1686 had established the first permanent European settlement in the lower Mississippi valley.

"The mountain counties of Arkansas were settled by pioneers from the southern Appalachians, who. . .sprang from British Highland stock. Families from the tidewater belt of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama, and from Kentucky and Mississippi settled the cotten lands of southern and eastern Arkansas. Some of our lowland families trace their ancestry to French and Spanish colonists. . .

"Public school facilities are available to all children in the Ozarks and every other geographical division. Some of the Ozark towns have public libraries, and the State Library Commission operates several regional libraries in the mountain area."

The University of Arkansas, College of the Ozarks, Arkansas College, John Brown University and Fort Smith Junior College are alllocated in the Ozarks. Up-until recently there were two state vocational schools in northern Arkansas. Arkansas Polytechnic College and Arkansas State Teachers College, which are south of the Ozarks, always draw a large number of students from the hills. Ozark folks established the first colleges in the state, beginning in 1851.

"Our northwest counties, are among the most progressive counties of the state. They balanced their agriculture long before the rest of Arkansas got interested in diversification.

"Although the hill counties furnished several thousand troops in the Union Army, the majority of the able-bodied men fought for the South. Few of them owned slaves, but they were not indifferent to state's rights. The most decisive battle west of the Mississippi was fought at Pea Ridge in Benton County, and now the federal government is making a National Battlefield Park there."

I found this account interesting because it is from the hill-folk that Gov. Orval Faubus springs. He started as a school teacher, then moved into all sorts of public offices, circuit clerk, county recorder, postmaster, highway commissioner, administrative assistant to the governor and director of highways. He edited and owned a newspaper, the "Madison County Record." It has been strictly a political career, moving step by step upward in his state.

In this sense, it has not been anything startlingly dramatic but it has been one in which power is steadily being built. His early supporters were the so-called liberals. He has apparently split with them althogether but an experienced politician would not have risked such a split with his early backers unless he knew that he had the support of other substantial elements in the population. I have not been to Arkansas during the present conflict, but I have used the telephone, and I think it would be a safe bet that if Faubus ran for governor tomorrow, he would be reelected. This does not mean that he is any better or any worse than people choose to think; it does mean that he is obviously an astute politician who has managed to sense public opinion in his state and to congeal it in his favor.

That curiously is the genius of the American form of government which is stronger in its states than in the federal government. The principle of local autonomy motivates all political thinking and as much as some would like to get away from state's rights and state consciousness, in every conflict of attitude between the federal administration and the states, the belief in state's rights is intensified. It is for this reason that she thinking of some New Dealers that the state should be abolished, as an antiquated institution, has not prevailed. Reactions to recent Supreme Court decisions have strengthened the belief in many parts of the country that state's rights must be preserved.

Try and Stop Me

GEORGE HOUDESHEL, of York, Pa., who admits to being 76 years young, writes, "Double-barreled stories are the ones I like best. Take the boy, for instance, who boasted, 'My brother's so tall that if he gets his feet wet on Monday, he doesn't get a cold in the head till Friday.' 'That's nothing,' pooh-poohed his friend. 'My brother's so tall he has to stand on top of a 12-foot ladder to comb his hair.' 'Why doesn't he put the mirror down lower?' asked the first boy. 'He can't do that,' explained the second. 'It would mean he had no use for the ladder.'"

Special Problems Faced by Diabetics

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

We all know that diabetes is a big problem. Somewhere between 1,000,000 and 3,000,000 Americans have the disease. For every four known cases, there may be three or more diabetes victims who are unaware they have the disease.

Aside from the need for insulin and special diets, there are other problems associated with diabetes which few persons realize.

For one thing, diagnosing the disease frequently presents a problem. One reason why there are so many unreported cases is that diabetes is a great imitator.

Puzzling symptoms may lead the victim to suspect his trouble is only a case of indigestion. Pain and uneasiness following meals is a frequent symptom of diatebes which is blamed simply on indigestion.

Sometimes an acute case of diabetes provides symptoms similar to acute appendicitis. This is a problem for the doctor, one which he must solve in a hurry.

Administration of insulin also may be a problem. Some persons are allergic to insulin. Yet if they have diabetes, they vitally need it.

Generally, any reaction at the site of the injection will disappear in a few weeks. If the allergic reaction is severe, a different brand of insulin may be tried.

If that doesn't halt the allergy, the doctor might have to conduct a desensitization series similar to that used for other allergens.

Beginning with a diluted solution, the physician gradually administers a series of graded doses until a resistance to the allergic reaction is built up.

All diabetes problems are not necessary physical troubles. It's vitally important for a diabetic to avoid needles emotional crises.

To help him make a good adjustment to his ailment, it's usually dvisable for him. to establish new habits of living early in the disease.

Finnish Beauty Wins Contest

LONDON (AP) — The new Miss World, a statuesque blonde who makes her living by taking care of people's feet, gave some special attention to her own today.

Marita Lindahl, 18, of Finland walked off with the beauty title Monday night.

But not before she had been on her feet for a long time.

"They hurt," she said. "I will now have to give them more attention."

Miss Finland, a pedicurist by profession, was the largest of the 23 girls in the competition. She stands 5 feet 7¾, weighs 136¼ and is contoured 37, 22¾, 37.

She was rewarded with a sports car and $1,400.

Adena Arrowhead Found in Mound

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—An arrowhead, made by the Adena Indians, who occupied the Ohio Valley 3,000 years ago, has been found in Welcome Mound at Natrium, eight miles north of here.

It was the first article turned up in the mound where excavation started last Tuesday under the direction of Frank M. Setzler of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.

Setzler said that workmen had located the original surface of the ground where the Indians had built their burial mound.

Tighter Laws Against Union Evils Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A broad legislative program to stamp out "gangsterism" and "corruption," in the labor movement was outlined here today by U. S. Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.)

In a speech prepared for delivery at the 64th annual meeting of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Curtis, a member of the McClellan committee investigating labor, called for support of a program to "protect the rank and file of the men and women who work, and the employers, and the general public, from those practices and those individuals that dominate, plunder, disrupt and destroy."

Curtis proposed a seven-point program:

"First, there must be legislation enacted requiring a thorough accounting of union dues and welfare funds.

"Secondly, there must be legislation that will assure a greater control of unions by union members. . . voting methods, nominations and elections of officers and delegates, and methods of holding conventions should be in the hands of the rank and file of the members and not governed from the top down.

"Third, we should outlaw the practice of exerting pressure on neutral businesses where there is no labor disputs. This is commonly called the secondary boycott...and it often amounts to economic blackmail.

"Fourth, a more effective method for preventing the use of union funds for political purposes such as making political contributions, providing research, furnishing manpower, and the use of publications to support candidates, parties and issues, oftentimes contrary to the views of the individual members.

"Fifth, anti-trust and anti-monopoly laws have been enacted to protect the public from the abuses that come from the concentration of economic power...therefore legal restraints should be imposed against the concentration of union power by groups of unions when that power becomes a threat to the welfare of the country.

"Sixth, the responsibilities for maintaining law and order and for the prosecution for assaults, bombings and like offenses should remain the responsibility of the state and local governments. However, the federal government should step in when hoodlums are transported across state lines for the purpose of committing violence.

"And seventh, union membership should be voluntary and not compulsory...no American citizen should be required to belong to any organization in order to secure or hold his job."

Curtis said the McClellan committee will file an interim report on its findings before Jan. 1. Hearings will continue through 1958, he said. He said he hopes that out of them "sound and fair legislation will be enacted."

In another prepared talk, Dr. C. J. Botte, an economic analyst for the Chamber of Commerce, predicted Ohio's "spectacular" growth will continue.

Ohio leads the nation in the production of durable goods, will probably become the nation's no. 1 producer of primary metals within 10 years, and is a challenger in a number of other commodities, he said.

S. B. McGavran, a budget analyst for the Chamber, said Ohio's policy of holding appropriations while estimated revenues, and basing the estimates on past collections, is a firm policy and has resulted in the state's economic growth.

He cautioned against overspending or misusing revenues, particularly in capital improvements such as school and highways, however, explaining that such misuses would ultimately delay further improvements.

John E. Senn, a tax law analyst for the Chamber, told delegates that Ohio has a dependable tax structure "that cannot easily be mutiliated at the whim or caprice of irresponsible leadership at the state or the local government level."

A less optimistic note was sounded by Dr. Arch D. Schultz, director of research for the Chamber. He told the group, "so far as economic facts are concerned, there is not the slightest bit of admissible evidence to suggest that Ohio will be the No. 1 industrial state as soon as 1970. Business and political leadership should face this as a fact."

Before Ohio could overtake New York as the country's top productive state, he said, it would need a 197 per cent increase in population by 1970 and would require more than a 20 million population. According to a U. S. Commerce Department report, he said. Ohio will only have between 12 and 13 million population in 1970.

Other talks on different aspects of the state's economy were delivered by William B. Papier of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation; Dr. Miles J. Martin of General Electric Co. and E. Eugene Fournace of Canton, an officer of Ohio Power Co.

Khrush Sees War Possible in Syria

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet party boss, has warned Europe's socialists that "imperialist machinations" regarding Syria might end in another war.

The Danish Socialist party published contents of a Khrushchev letter it received, and said most other Socialist parties in Western Europe had received similar letters from the Soviet Central Committee. Socialist parties are in power in all Scandinavian countries.

Similar letters are reported to have been received by Labor party leaders in Britain and the Netherlands.

These so - called practical politicians— as distinguished from statesmen— are primarily interested in votes. They are for or against any measure, as a rule, either because it makes or loses votes in their judgement, or sometimes because it means personal profit to them.

At the present time there are a number of states in the North where there are very large numbers of what are known as minority groups. For instance, Labor is one such group— very often affected as a unit by political issues.

This is also true of foreign groups— great numbers of people who have come into our midst and are not yet wholly absorbed and who vote one way or another according to the influence of the ties that bind them to nations or groups in other parts of the world.

The recent unhappy disturbances over school issues in the South, probably have been stirred up, not so much by the Negroes in the South as by the white and colored politicians in both South and North. There are half a dozen American states in the North where there is a large Negro population.

There are also large masses of various racial and religious groups— many of them rather recent newcomers to our country. These immense masses of votes in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Illinois and some other states, can be easily aroused by problems which affect them in their racial, religious or economic conditions.

Political observers recognize how easy it is to start campaigns of hate among many of such groups.

This whole school integration matter will require time, common sense, tolerance and above all calm thinking, before it is solved to the point of avoiding future trouble.

Meantime firmness is necessary in handling those who seek to arouse violent action and who do not want to see safe and quiet efforts toward solution, become successful.

Tighter Laws Against Union Evils Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A broad legislative program to stamp out "gangsterism" and "corruption," in the labor movement was outlined here today by U. S. Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.)

In a speech prepared for delivery at the 64th annual meeting of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Curtis, a member of the McClellan committee investigating labor, called for support of a program to "protect the rank and file of the men and women who work, and the employers, and the general public, from those practices and those individuals that dominate, plunder, disrupt and destroy."

Curtis proposed a seven-point program:

"First, there must be legislation enacted requiring a thorough accounting of union dues and welfare funds.

"Secondly, there must be legislation that will assure a greater control of unions by union members. . . voting methods, nominations and elections of officers and delegates, and methods of holding conventions should be in the hands of the rank and file of the members and not governed from the top down.

"Third, we should outlaw the practice of exerting pressure on neutral businesses where there is no labor disputs. This is commonly called the secondary boycott...and it often amounts to economic blackmail.

"Fourth, a more effective method for preventing the use of union funds for political purposes such as making political contributions, providing research, furnishing manpower, and the use of publications to support candidates, parties and issues, oftentimes contrary to the views of the individual members.

"Fifth, anti-trust and anti-monopoly laws have been enacted to protect the public from the abuses that come from the concentration of economic power...therefore legal restraints should be imposed against the concentration of union power by groups of unions when that power becomes a threat to the welfare of the country.

"Sixth, the responsibilities for maintaining law and order and for the prosecution for assaults, bombings and like offenses should remain the responsibility of the state and local governments. However, the federal government should step in when hoodlums are transported across state lines for the purpose of committing violence.

"And seventh, union membership should be voluntary and not compulsory...no American citizen should be required to belong to any organization in order to secure or hold his job."

Curtis said the McClellan committee will file an interim report on its findings before Jan. 1. Hearings will continue through 1958, he said. He said he hopes that out of them "sound and fair legislation will be enacted."

In another prepared talk, Dr. C. J. Botte, an economic analyst for the Chamber of Commerce, predicted Ohio's "spectacular" growth will continue. ....

Ohio leads the nation in the production of durable goods, will probably become the nation's no. 1 producer of primary metals within 10 years, and is a challenger in a number of other commodities, he said.

S. B. McGavran, a budget analyst for the Chamber, said Ohio's policy of holding appropriations while estimated revenues, and basing the estimates on past collections, is a firm policy and has resulted in the state's economic growth.

He cautioned against overspending or misusing revenues, particularly in capital improvements such as school and highways, however, explaining that such misuses would ultimately delay further improvements.

John E. Senn, a tax law analyst for the Chamber, told delegates that Ohio has a dependable tax structure "that cannot easily be mutiliated at the whim or caprice of irresponsible leadership at the state or the local government level."

A less optimistic note was sounded by Dr. Arch D. Schultz, director of research for the Chamber. He told the group, "so far as economic facts are concerned, there is not the slightest bit of admissible evidence to suggest that Ohio will be the No. 1 industrial state as soon as 1970. Business and political leadership should face this as a fact."

Before Ohio could overtake New York as the country's top productive state, he said, it would need a 197 per cent increase in population by 1970 and would require more than a 20 million population. According to a U. S. Commerce Department report, he said. Ohio will only have between 12 and 13 million population in 1970.

Other talks on different aspects of the state's economy were delivered by William B. Papier of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation; Dr. Miles J. Martin of General Electric Co. and E. Eugene Fournace of Canton, an officer of Ohio Power Co.

Khrush Sees War Possible in Syria

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet party boss, has warned Europe's socialists that "imperialist machinations" regarding Syria might end in another war.

The Danish Socialist party published contents of a Khrushchev letter it received, and said most other Socialist parties in Western Europe had received similar letters from the Soviet Central Committee. Socialist parties are in power in all Scandinavian countries.

Similar letters are reported to have been received by Labor party leaders in Britain and the Netherlands.

Special Problems Faced by Diabetics

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

We all know that diabetes is a big problem. Somewhere between 1,000,000 and 3,000,000 Americans have the disease. For every four known cases, there may be three or more diabetes victims who are unaware they have the disease.

Aside from the need for insulin and special diets, there are other problems associated with diabetes which few persons realize.

For one thing, diagnosing the disease frequently presents a problem. One reason why there are so many unreported cases is that diabetes is a great imitator.

Puzzling symptoms may lead the victim to suspect his trouble is only a case of indigestion. Pain and uneasiness following meals is a frequent symptom of diatebes which is blamed simply on indigestion.

Sometimes an acute case of diabetes provides symptoms similar to acute appendicitis. This is a problem for the doctor, one which he must solve in a hurry.

Administration of insulin also may be a problem. Some persons are allergic to insulin. Yet if they have diabetes, they vitally need it.

Generally, any reaction at the site of the injection will disappear in a few weeks. If the allergic reaction is severe, a different brand of insulin may be tried.

If that doesn't halt the allergy, the doctor might have to conduct a desensitization series similar to that used for other allergens.

Beginning with a diluted solution, the physician gradually administers a series of graded doses until a resistance to the allergic reaction is built up.

All diabetes problems are not necessary physical troubles. It's vitally important for a diabetic to avoid needles emotional crises.

To help him make a good adjustment to his ailment, it's usually dvisable for him. to establish new habits of living early in the disease.

Arkansas and Gov. Faubus

By George Sokolsky

It is impossible to understand an event without some recognition of the environment in which the events occurs.

Recently I wrote on the nature of the Arkansas population. The United States is composed of so many varieties of peoples, so many different combinations of folks, that any generalization about the American people proves to be incorrect in some locality.

Therefore I was especially grateful when an editor of the "Arkansas Democrat" of Little Rock wrote to me about his state, which is now internationally so newsworthy. He wrote:

"The institution of slavery came to Arkansas long before statehood. John Law's German and French Catholic colonists under a Jewish manager brought the first Negro slaves to Arkansas Post in 1719 where Henri De Tonti in 1686 had established the first permanent European settlement in the lower Mississippi valley.

"The mountain counties of Arkansas were settled by pioneers from the southern Appalachians, who. . .sprang from British Highland stock. Families from the tidewater belt of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama, and from Kentucky and Mississippi settled the cotten lands of southern and eastern Arkansas. Some of our lowland families trace their ancestry to French and Spanish colonists. . .

"Public school facilities are available to all children in the Ozarks and every other geographical division. Some of the Ozark towns have public libraries, and the State Library Commission operates several regional libraries in the mountain area."

The University of Arkansas, College of the Ozarks, Arkansas College, John Brown University and Fort Smith Junior College are alllocated in the Ozarks. Up until recently there were two state vocational schools in northern Arkansas. Arkansas Polytechnic College and Arkansas State Teachers College, which are south of the Ozarks, always draw a large number of students from the hills. Ozark folks established the first colleges in the state, beginning in 1851.

"Our northwest counties, are among the most progressive counties of the state. They balanced their agriculture long before the rest of Arkansas got interested in diversification.

"Although the hill counties furnished several thousand troops in the Union Army, the majority of the able-bodied men fought for the South. Few of them owned slaves, but they were not indifferent to state's rights. The most decisive battle west of the Mississippi was fought at Pea Ridge in Benton County, and now the federal government is making a National Battlefield Park there."

I found this account interesting because it is from the hill-folk that Gov. Orval Faubus springs. He started as a school teacher, then moved into all sorts of public offices, circuit clerk, county recorder, postmaster, highway commissioner, administrative assistant to the governor and director of highways. He edited and owned a newspaper, the "Madison County Record." It has been strictly a political career, moving step by step upward in his state.

In this sense, it has not been anything startlingly dramatic but it has been one in which power is steadily being built. His early supporters were the so-called liberals. He has apparently split with them althogether but an experienced politician would not have risked such a split with his early backers unless he knew that he had the support of other substantial elements in the population. I have not been to Arkansas during the present conflict, but I have used the telephone, and I think it would be a safe bet that if Faubus ran for governor tomorrow, he would be reelected. This does not mean that he is any better or any worse than people choose to think; it does mean that he is obviously an astute politician who has managed to sense public opinion in his state and to congeal it in his favor.

That curiously is the genius of the American form of government which is stronger in its states than in the federal government. The principle of local autonomy motivates all political thinking and as much as some would like to get away from state's rights and state consciousness, in every conflict of attitude between the federal administration and the states, the belief in state's rights is intensified. It is for this reason that she thinking of some New Dealers that the state should be abolished, as an antiquated institution, has not prevailed. Reactions to recent Supreme Court decisions have strengthened the belief in many parts of the country that state's rights must be preserved.

GEORGE HOUDESHEL, of York, Pa., who admits to being 76 years young, writes, "Double-barreled stories are the ones I like best. Take the boy, for instance, who boasted, 'My brother's so tall that if he gets his feet wet on Monday, he doesn't get a cold in the head till Friday.' 'That's nothing,' pooh-poohed his friend. 'My brother's so tall he has to stand on top of a 12-foot ladder to comb his hair.' 'Why doesn't he put the mirror down lower?' asked the first boy. 'He can't do that,' explained the second. 'It would mean he had no use for the ladder.'"

Adena Arrowhead Found in Mound

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—An arrowhead, made by the Adena Indians, who occupied the Ohio Valley 3,000 years ago, has been found in Welcome Mound at Natrium, eight miles north of here.

It was the first article turned up in the mound where excavation started last Tuesday under the direction of Frank M. Setzler of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.

Setzler said that workmen had located the original surface of the ground where the Indians had built their burial mound.

Protect Influence Is Reported Down

Barber Shoppers Acquire New Home

The Lads of Enchantment are the current champions. They are from Albuquerque, N. M.

Resounding to strains of Sweet Adoline, this Georgian mansion on Lake Michigan now is international headquarters for the famous fun organization, S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

KENOSHA, Wis. — You can chuckle a little, but don't laugh at the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. is a fun organization, to be sure, but with the acquisition here on the shores of Lake Michigan, about half way between Chicago and Milwaukee, of the large Alford estate as its international headquarters, President Rowland F Davis, New York telephone company executive, proclaims the SPEBSQSA has "come of age." It was founded 19 years ago in Tulsa, Okla.

About the farthest thing from an old barber shop, the $500,000 Georgian mansion is envisaged as an important storehouse of Americana. Already Robert G. Hafer, international secretary, has moved his headquarters staff here from Detroit.

At the recent international convention in Los Angeles, the representatives of the 26,000 members in more than 500 chapters throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Canal Zone were told that the new headquarters was picked up "virtually for a song." Nevertheless, it constitutes a $150,000 project. The society expects to burn the mortgage on the stage, appropriately enough, of the Opera House in Chicago during the 1959 convention.

* * *

THE SOCIETY is dedicated to the proposition that calypso, bop, boogie, rock 'n' roll, and what have you, will come and go, but that good old barber shop harmonizing will go on forever.

When one of the two annual national conventions, or one of the 14 district conventions, descends upon a town, it hits with a vocal impact something like a confab of motorcyclists.

At the least provocation, quartets of fresh- faced, eternally convivial songsters bob up and begin vocalizing in railroad stations, bars, restaurants, hotel check-in counters and practically everywhere else, at less than the least provocation.

This is quaint and even downright entertaining for a while, but who wants it for a steady diet, ask some of the hosts for these jubilant get - togethers.

Nevertheless, Kenosha's mayor and Wisconsin's governor earnestly importuned the barber shoppers to move in on them forever. They may be relying upon the limitless expanse of Lake Michigan on one side, and the rolling, wooded meadows on the other three as effective insulation.

* * *

THE LATE Owen C. Cash, tax attorney of Tulsa, started all this in 1938, when he got Rupert I. Hall, an investment man, to join him in sending out letters to their friends inviting them to hold "an old - fashioned" song - fest on the roof garden of the Tulsa Club.

Neither Tulsa nor the Cash-Hall friends ever got over it, and the nationwide organization "spread like wildfire." Barber shop singing had fallen to such a low estate since its heyday in the 1890s that they hardly could find arrangements still extant for such classics as "Somebody Stole My Gal," "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "Sailing Down Chesapeake Bay," "Heart of My Heart," "All Dressed Up With a Broken Heart," "That Old Gang of Mine," "Tie Me to Your Apron Strings Again," and, of course, "Down by the Old Mill Stream," and the immortal "Sweet Adeline."

But that never will happen again, vows the SPEBSQSA. Barbershopping has been established as a song form: "The melody usually is sung by the lead. The tenor part, comparable to high alto, customarily is sung above the lead. The bass sings lower than the lead, and the baritone provides those in-between notes that produce the distinctive sound of barber shop harmony."

Board members have included Harry S. Truman, Bing Crosby, Bentonelli of the Metropolitan Opera, Hoagy Carmichael and Fred Waring, but to belong you have to be strictly an amateur at quartet singing.

North Ohio Sees Sputnik 2nd Day

CLEVELAND (AP) — The third-stage rocket that boosted Russia's Sputnik into its orbit and remained to become a second satellite was observed over northern Ohio Tuesday for the second consecutive day.

Scientists at Warner & Swasey Observatory said the rocket was sighted from the Nassau Astronomical Station of Case Institute of Technology 30 miles east of Cleveland from 6:05 to 6:07 a. m. EST, travelling from a little west of north to the southeast.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson Jr., who live near Alliance, Ohio, reported seeing the rocket at 6:05 a. m. They said it came out of the north, passed the handle of the Big Dipper and quickly faded from sight in the southeast. They said it looked "like a flat star" and was extremely bright.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State liquor Board members no longer will receive allowances for travel between their homes and Columbus.

An opinion by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to state Auditor James A. Rhodes cut off the allowances of long standing.

Ohio's Supreme Court in 1948 knocked out allowances for meals, lodging and incidentals in Columbus.

Saxbe's opinion said statute does not permit allowances for travel expenses from the respective residences of board members to the principal place of business, which is in Columbus. The ruling held that other actual and necessary expenses for travel are permissile.

Board members are Chairman Robert Koch of Van Wert, Miss Ester R. Hard of Fremont, James Donelly of Cleveland and E. G. Schuessler of Columbus.

The full time jobs pay $6,000 annually. The chairman receives an additional $500 a year.

Rhodes estimated that allowances averaged $50 a month for out-of-town members traveling to Columbus where the board customarily meets to hear citations for liquor law violations and review appeals from permit suspensions and revocations.

The board also holds meetings in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo and plans to hold sessions in the other division headquarters cities of Lima, Canton, Dayton and Portsmouth.

The Supreme Court decision nearly a decade ago came on a suit by Simon L. Leis of Cincinnati, former board member, against then state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

Leis asked the court to require payment of his expense claim of $25.21 for railroad fare between Cincinnati and Columbus, lodging, meals, phone calls and cab fares while attending official business in the capital.

The unanimous ruling in a decision written by Judge Charles B. Zimmerman denied the request. The decision read:

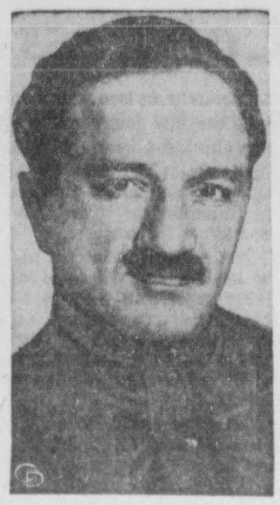

"It can hardly be said with confidence that the phrase 'travel expenses' . . . includes expenditures for subsistence, lodging, telephone calls, local transportation, etc., made by one receiving an annual salary for his services after arriving at his destination for the transaction of the business in which he is regularly engaged on a full time basis . . ."

Zimmerman held that "statutes relating to fees and compensation of public offices must be strictly construed in favor of the government and such officers are entitled only to what is clearly given by law."

The attorney general's opinion, having the force of law pending a court test, followed ultimate refusal of the last Legislature to double the salaries of board members.

The Legislature, early in the session, granted big pay raises to various state officials and members of boards and commissions. But the increases were rescinded late in the session at the request of Gov. C. William O'Neill.

Koch said none of the board members got any of the increases that called for $12,000 a year for those starting new terms.

Barber Shoppers Acquire New Home

The Lads of Enchantment are the current champions. They are from Albuquerque, N. M.

Resounding to strains of Sweet Adoline, this Georgian mansion on Lake Michigan now is international headquarters for the famous fun organization, S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

KENOSHA, Wis. — You can chuckle a little, but don't laugh at the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. is a fun organization, to be sure, but with the acquisition here on the shores of Lake Michigan, about half way between Chicago and Milwaukee, of the large Alford estate as its international headquarters, President Rowland F Davis, New York telephone company executive, proclaims the SPEBSQSA has "come of age." It was founded 19 years ago in Tulsa, Okla.

About the farthest thing from an old barber shop, the $500,000 Georgian mansion is envisaged as an important storehouse of Americana. Already Robert G. Hafer, international secretary, has moved his headquarters staff here from Detroit.

At the recent international convention in Los Angeles, the representatives of the 26,000 members in more than 500 chapters throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Canal Zone were told that the new headquarters was picked up "virtually for a song." Nevertheless, it constitutes a $150,000 project. The society expects to burn the mortgage on the stage, appropriately enough, of the Opera House in Chicago during the 1959 convention.

• • •

THE SOCIETY is dedicated to the proposition that calypso, bop, boogie, rock 'n' roll, and what have you, will come and go, but that good old barber shop harmonizing will go on forever.

When one of the two annual national conventions, or one of the 14 district conventions, descends upon a town, it hits with a vocal impact something like a confab of motorcyclists.

At the least provocation, quartets of fresh- faced, eternally convivial songsters bob up and begin vocalizing in railroad stations, bars, restaurants, hotel check-in counters and practically everywhere else, at less than the least provocation.

This is quaint and even downright entertaining for a while, but who wants it for a steady diet, ask some of the hosts for these jubilant get - togethers.

Nevertheless, Kenosha's mayor and Wisconsin's governor earnestly importuned the barber shoppers to move in on them forever. They may be relying upon the limitless expanse of Lake Michigan on one side, and the rolling, wooded meadows on the other three as effective insulation.

• • •

THE LATE Owen C. Cash, tax attorney of Tulsa, started all this in 1938, when he got Rupert I. Hall, an investment man, to join him in sending out letters to their friends inviting them to hold "an old - fashioned" song - fest on the roof garden of the Tulsa Club.

Neither Tulsa nor the Cash-Hall friends ever got over it, and the nationwide organization "spread like wildfire." Barber shop singing had fallen to such a low estate since its heyday in the 1890s that they hardly could find arrangements still extant for such classics as "Somebody Stole My Gal," "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "Sailing Down Chesapeake Bay," "Heart of My Heart," "All Dressed Up With a Broken Heart," "That Old Gang of Mine," "Tie Me to Your Apron Strings Again," and, of course, "Down by the Old Mill Stream," and the immortal "Sweet Adeline."

But that never will happen again, vows the SPEBSQSA. Barbershopping has been established as a song form: "The melody usually is sung by the lead. The tenor part, comparable to high alto, customarily is sung above the lead. The bass sings lower than the lead, and the baritone provides those in-between notes that produce the distinctive sound of barber shop harmony."

Board members have included Harry S. Truman, Bing Crosby, Bentonelli of the Metropolitan Opera, Hoagy Carmichael and Fred Waring, but to belong you have to be strictly an amateur at quartet singing.

North Ohio Sees Sputnik 2nd Day

CLEVELAND (AP) — The third-stage rocket that boosted Russia's Sputnik into its orbit and remained to become a second satellite was observed over northern Ohio Tuesday for the second consecutive day.

Scientists at Warner & Swasey Observatory said the rocket was sighted from the Nassau Astronomical Station of Case Institute of Technology 30 miles east of Cleveland from 6:05 to 6:07 a. m. EST, travelling from a little west of north to the southeast.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson Jr., who live near Alliance, Ohio, reported seeing the rocket at 6:05 a. m. They said it came out of the north, passed the handle of the Big Dipper and quickly faded from sight in the southeast. They said it looked "like a flat star" and was extremely bright.

State Liquor Chiefs Lose Allowances

Ohio Legal Officer's Opinion Nips Payments Made Board Members

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State liquor Board members no longer will receive allowances for travel between their homes and Columbus.

An opinion by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to state Auditor James A. Rhodes cut off the allowances of long standing.

Ohio's Supreme Court in 1948 knocked out allowances for meals, lodging and incidentals in Columbus.

Saxbe's opinion said statute does not permit allowances for travel expenses from the respective residences of board members to the principal place of business, which is in Columbus. The ruling held that other actual and necessary expenses for travel are permissible.

Board members are Chairman Robert Koch of Van Wert, Miss Ester R. Hard of Fremont, James Donelly of Cleveland and E. G. Schuessler of Columbus.

The full time jobs pay $6,000 annually. The chairman receives an additional $500 a year.

Rhodes estimated that allowances averaged $50 a month for out-of-town members traveling to Columbus where the board customarily meets to hear citations for liquor law violations and review appeals from permit suspensions and revocations.

The board also holds meetings in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo and plans to hold sessions in the other division headquarters cities of Lima, Canton, Dayton and Portsmouth.

The Supreme Court decision nearly a decade ago came on a suit by Simon L. Leis of Cincinnati, former board member, against then state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

Leis asked the court to require payment of his expense claim of $25.21 for railroad fare between Cincinnati and Columbus, lodging, meals, phone calls and cab fares while attending official business in the capital.

The unanimous ruling in a decision written by Judge Charles B. Zimmerman denied the request. The decision read:

"It can hardly be said with confidence that the phrase 'travel expenses' . . . includes expenditures for subsistence, lodging, telephone calls, local transportation, etc., made by one receiving an annual salary for his services after arriving at his destination for the transaction of the business in which he is regularly engaged on a full time basis . . ."

Zimmerman held that "statutes relating to fees and compensation of public offices must be strictly construed in favor of the government and such officers are entitled only to what is clearly given by law."

The attorney general's opinion, having the force of law pending a court test, followed ultimate refusal of the last Legislature to double the salaries of board members.

The Legislature, early in the session, granted big pay raises to various state officials and members of boards and commissions. But the increases were rescinded late in the session at the request of Gov. C. William O'Neill.

Reformed Racketeer Offers His New Plan To Stop Crime

Once a crime leader, a man who stole $16 million, Herbert Emerson Wilson today is an author-lecturer-crime fighter.

By DON LOWRY
Central Press Assn.

At one time Herbert Emerson Wilson was pastor of San Diego's First Baptist Church.

At another time he was a clever and daring thief who planned and pulled off robberies that baffled police and FBI investigators for years, until he was caught.

Today he is a highly successful author and lecturer. His literary, radio and television themes all evolve around the futility of crime.

"Crime was my business," he says, "and I made it big business. I made it pay and pay and pay, and then one day it made me pay —with about 20 years." He served those years in San Quentin penitentiary..

Willson says, "Crime is a mongrel born of illicit union between opportunity and expediency."

* * *

THE EX-MINISTER, ex-convict, ex-hoodlum makes three suggestions which, he thinks, will lower the incidence of juvenile crime, at least.

He would break up all street gangs. However, he says, this is too monumental a job for the police alone.

"It is an undertaking in which every family must be educated and encouraged to assist," says Wilson.

"One juvenile with ideas of a criminal career is not unlike one bad potato in a bag." The man who is credited by U. S. postal authorities with having stolen $16 million during his looting career feels this is the first step—to root out the one bad "potato" in the juvenile neighborhood gang.

* * *

DURING his many years behind prison bars, Wilson says he noted the need for administrators well versed in the ways of the criminal. He offers a unique solution: "I would, if I were a chief of police, engage the services of a 'truly reformed' crook. Such practical experience would qualify such an ex-con to become an executive in a police department, whose office would be the Bureau of Crime Prevention."

Wilson's final crime prevention plan is the educating of businessmen in the ways of safeguarding their property.

He would enforce observance of adequate precautions, prevent robbery, safe-cracking, burglary and even the less major crimes ranging from petty theft to forgery.

This plan, with the co-operation of the press, police and public, would, says Wilson, "be a true and honest prevention of crime."

He believes it would reduce crime by 50 per cent during a five year period.

Gift to Library of Congress Recalls Most Famous Cowboy

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Assn.

WASHINGTON — The thoughts of millions will turn down memory's lane with the disclosure that the Library of Congress has received an extensive collection on the life of William S. Hart.

Hart was the most famous cowboy ever to grace the American screen. His fame exceeded that of presidents and kings. When Hart was at his prime, there probably wasn't a kid in the land who hadn't heard of him.

Hart died in 1946 at the age of 83. He hadn't made a movie since 1925, but his fame was such that for years after he retired he received more than 100 fan letters a week.

One of his greatest admirers was Gatewood W. Dunstan, Norfolk, Va., motion picture projector operator. He has turned over to the library an extensive collection which he faithfully gathered over the years.

It includes correspondence with the one-time movie great, more than a dozen film scrips, photographs, books and many other souvenirs.

* * *

HART MADE many pictures between 1914 and 1925. His grim face, aquiline nose and penetrating eyes were known to everyone who went to the movies.

An early script in the collection was for the movie, "The Scourge of the Desert." Many of the elements which made up the plots of Hart's Westerns are to be found in this 1914 script.

Hart is a gambling hall proprietor who falls in love with a minister's beautiful daughter. The minister also has a weak-willed son, who is sought by a posse for holding up a stagecoach. Hart takes the blame for the holdup, but escapes from the posse.

Then follows the chase which is familiar to millions of avid followers of Hart— across the burning desert, through thick mountain brush, across rickety bridge which spans a deep chasm and finally out of the posse's reach.

Hart subsequently returns to the minister's daughter to bid her a fond adieu. He will meet her later in Mexico, he promises her. Then he rides off into the sunset as the minister's daughter, for whose pure love he has given up everything, kneels in prayer with her hands clasped.

Although Hart made countless Westerns, he didn't think much of those that followed him. He insisted always on historical accuracy. He wrote Dunstan in 1939: "I have seen one Western—'The Plainsman'— I'll never go again. I'm no good for weeks afterward. It isn't what is wrong. There is never anything right."

* * *

FROM HART Dunstan also got the lowdown on how a cowboy should wear his guns. "When guns are worn butts forward, it is a cross draw," wrote Hart. "The right hand gets the left gun, etc. To draw two guns butt-forward would not only be awkward and impractical, but the shooter would be in danger of getting the lead himself."

In 1930, Hart wrote Dunstan, "My answer to your question as to shooting 400 yards accurately with a six-gun is— no! I don't believe any man ever lived that could do it."

There always were rumors that Hart would return to the movies, but the retired movie hero periodically denied any such intention, the last time in 1944, when he was 81.

Eight years after Hart died, the movie hero still had many loyal fans. Not the least of them was Dunstan, who wrote an acquaintance in 1954 that "the grass might be dead upon Bill's grave with the winter's blast, but his memory is still alive in the hearts of his old fans."

Reformed Racketeer Offers His New Plan To Stop Crime

Once a crime leader, a man who stole $16 million, Herbert Emerson Wilson today is an author-lecturer-crime fighter.

By DON LOWRY
Central Press Assn.

At one time Herbert Emerson Wilson was pastor of San Diego's First Baptist Church.

At another time he was a clever and daring thief who planned and pulled off robberies that baffled police and FBI investigators for years, until he was caught.

Today he is a highly successful author and lecturer. His literary, radio and television themes all evolve around the futility of crime.

"Crime was my business," he says, "and I made it big business. I made it pay and pay and pay, and then one day it made me pay —with about 20 years." He served those years in San Quentin penitentiary..

Willson says, "Crime is a mongrel born of illicit union between opportunity and expediency."

* * *

THE EX-MINISTER, ex-convict, ex-hoodlum makes three suggestions which, he thinks, will lower the incidence of juvenile crime, at least.

He would break up all street gangs. However, he says, this is too monumental a job for the police alone.

"It is an undertaking in which every family must be educated and encouraged to assist," says Wilson.

"One juvenile with ideas of a criminal career is not unlike one bad potato in a bag." The man who is credited by U. S. postal authorities with having stolen $16 million during his looting career feels this is the first step—to root out the one bad "potato" in the juvenile neighborhood gang.

* * *

DURING his many years behind prison bars, Wilson says he noted the need for administrators well versed in the ways of the criminal. He offers a unique solution: "I would, if I were a chief of police, engage the services of a 'truly reformed' crook. Such practical experience would qualify such an ex-con to become an executive in a police department, whose office would be the Bureau of Crime Prevention."

Wilson's final crime prevention plan is the educating of businessmen in the ways of safeguarding their property.

He would enforce observance of adequate precautions, prevent robbery, safe-cracking, burglary and even the less major crimes ranging from petty theft to forgery.

This plan, with the co-operation of the press, police and public, would, says Wilson, "be a true and honest prevention of crime."

He believes it would reduce crime by 50 per cent during a five year period.

Atomic Energy Uses Outlined To Rotary Club

Washington C. H. Rotarians got a brief but eye-opening glimpse of the peacetime uses of atomic energy Tuesday noon.

The speaker was Andy L. Lowry, of the Goodyear Atomic Corp.'s public relations staff, who also presented a color movie, produced by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and titled "The Atom Has Come to Town."

Lowry is associate editor of the "Wingfoot Clan," employe magazine published by the Goodyear firm which operates the Atomic Energy Commission's big plant near Piketon.

* * *

THE SPEAKER pointed out that according to expert opinion, as much power will be produced by nuclear energy in 20 years as is now produced from all other sources.

Actually the amount of power produced by non-nuclear methods probably will be as great than as now, but there will be a tremendous increase in demand for electrical energy.

And while atomic power plants will not doom the conventional generating plant, they will be commercial suppliers of a new energy resource which will be needed more and more as coal and oil reserves diminish.

Science already is producing efficient nuclear power plants which will be "good neighbors" as far as safety factors are concerned, the film revealed.

The film illustrated many of the other peacetime uses of atomic energy—including the healing powers of isotopes and their uses in improving and increasing food supplies. Atomic rays are speeding automation, perfecting new manufacturing techniques and are revolutionizing oil-drilling operations by "mapping" rock strata and eliminating time-consuming test procedures.

* * *

LOWRY EXPLAINED that the Ohio atomic plant separates uranium 235 and 238 from a gaseous raw material shipped from Colorado. Part of the refined materials produced near Piketon are sent to Oak Ridge for the production of isotopes, a part goes in the military and a part to the global peacetime atomic energy program.

Lowry spoke briefly on the rapidly expanding uses of atomic energy, including preservation of food without refrigeration. The government has a plant for this purpose in Stockton, Calif.

The speaker was introduced by Howard D. Fogle, program chairman. His appearance here was arranged by Fogle and Ralph Penn in cooperation with P. F. Bliss, community relations coordinator at the Southern Ohio plant.

* * *

FRANK ESPOHL, Cincinnati, was the guest of Edmond Woodmansee at the meeting, and J. A. Duncan, Greenfield, was the only visiting Rotarian.

Fred Rost, attending this first meeting since recovering from a serious illness, spoke briefly.

* * *

INSTEAD of their luncheon session next week, local Rotarians and their wives will attend an intercities meeting at Snow Hill Country Club near Wilmington. Greenfield and Hillsboro clubs will participate.

Dr. Samuel Marble, president of Wilmington College, will address a Rotary Ann party at Washington Country Club Wednesday evening, Nov. 6.

Bloomingburg School News

By ANNE CRAIG

BLOOMINGBURG — The teachers at Bloomingburg School deserve a large amount of the credit for the top-ranking achievements of the students. All six of the elementary teachers and seven of the nine high school teachers were on the faculty last year. The two new instructors are Mr. Malcolm Kelley and Mr. John Limbert.

Mr. Kelley graduated from Belfast High School in Highland County. He majored in Social Studies and English at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., where he graduated in 1952. This is his fourth year of teaching. At Bloomingburg he teaches English 9 and 10, and four history courses. He lives in Washington C. H. with Mrs. Kelley and their four children.

Mr. Limbert graduated from Upper Arlington High School and continued his education at Ohio State, where he majored in business administration. This is his first year of teaching. He has classes in business math, economics, Ohio History, and geography.

* * *

A NEW COURSE, drivers' training, is being offered after a lapse of one year under the instruction of Mr. Everett Rudolph. General math taught by Mr. Limbert and Latin II by Mrs. Craig are two new subjects given this year.

Citizens of the Bloomingburg community might be interested in the various occupations of the 18 1957 graduates. Three boys, Garry McConnaughey, Don Welsh, and John Hixson, have enlisted in the armed services. Three other members have married. They are Shirley Williams, Geneva Leach and Jerry McCoy.

Seven graduates of the class, Tillie Lee, Sandra Roberts, Roberta Ater, Carole Cramer, Ronnie Huff, Darrell Mickle and Tom Slager are working.

George Iden is a student at Miami University, Marilyn Rhoades is at Ohio State, and Mary Cook at Wilmington College.

Attending the Springfield School of Business are Brenda Emery and Shirley Williams Garinger.

Donna Harris plans to enter nursing school soon.

O'Neill Hails Ohio's Plans For Expansion

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill told Kenyon College students and faculty Tuesday that Ohio is embarked on the largest public improvement program in its history.

He observed that the state is one of the fastest growing in the nation and cited four areas of major growth. He said:

"In the next two years, two million dollars will be spent on parks, lakes and recreation in general. In the next three years, 31 million dollars will go for new buildings on campuses at state educational institutions. In the next two years, 47 million dollars will be spent on mental hospitals and correctional institutions, and during this same period a billion dollars will be expended on the highway program."

The governor said that, despite this, there will be no new taxes in the next two years.

By 1970, O'Neill predicted a 37 per cent increase in Ohio's population, a total of 3¼ million more people.

"By the next presidential election, he said, "the state will be the fourth largest in the nation. It is already second in manufacturing and the lead that New York has now is being steadily closed."

O'Neill said the geographic location of Ohio, between the lake on the north and the river on the south makes most of the commerce to the east pass through the state.

"Despite the phenomenal growth," the governor said. "Ohio has 65 million dollars in the bank this morning."

Ohio River Town Is Denied Sewage Discharge Renewal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board Tuesday denied renewal of a sewage discharge permit for the village of Coal Grove, near Ironton.

The board issued a notice of violation in the case and will hold a public hearing on the notice at its January meeting.

The village has detailed plans for about $350,000 worth of new sewers and a $150,000 sewage treatment plant. It has no plant now and discharges sewage into the Ohio River.

The village also is under orders of the eight-state Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission to provide treatment.

The board renewed sewage discharge permits for three other villages.

The permit for Lakeview, a recently incorporated suburban area in the Conneaut district, was extended for six months on the basis that minor pollution will be checked.

The Middleport permit was extended for six months on condition that village begin work on a $250,000 system of sewers and treatment plant.

The Pomeroy permit was extended for 90 days. During that time, community and State Department of Health engineers will consider reducing the size of the project believed required. Present thinking is that it would cost Pomeroy one million dollars.

Pomeroy and Middleport have been considering solving their sewage treatment problems jointly and today's action does not stop them from getting together on a joint venture, a board spokesman said.

The board also announced these federal aid allocations for building sewage treatment facilities:

Atomic Energy Uses Outlined To Rotary Club

Washington C. H. Rotarians got a brief but eye-opening glimpse of the peacetime uses of atomic energy Tuesday noon.

The speaker was Andy L. Lowry, of the Goodyear Atomic Corp.'s public relations staff, who also presented a color movie, produced by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and titled "The Atom Has Come to Town."

Lowry is associate editor of the "Wingfoot Clan," employe magazine published by the Goodyear firm which operates the Atomic Energy Commission's big plant near Piketon.

* * *

THE SPEAKER pointed out that according to expert opinion, as much power will be produced by nuclear energy in 20 years as is now produced from all other sources.

Actually the amount of power produced by non-nuclear methods probably will be as great than as now, but there will be a tremendous increase in demand for electrical energy.

And while atomic power plants will not doom the conventional generating plant, they will be commercial suppliers of a new energy resource which will be needed more and more as coal and oil reserves diminish.

Science already is producing efficient nuclear power plants which will be "good neighbors" as far as safety factors are concerned, the film revealed.

The film illustrated many of the other peacetime uses of atomic energy—including the healing powers of isotopes and their uses in improving and increasing food supplies. Atomic rays are speeding automation, perfecting new manufacturing techniques and are revolutionizing oil-drilling operations by "mapping" rock strata and eliminating time-consuming test procedures.

* * *

LOWRY EXPLAINED that the Ohio atomic plant separates uranium 235 and 238 from a gaseous raw material shipped from Colorado. Part of the refined materials produced near Piketon are sent to Oak Ridge for the production of isotopes, a part goes in the military and a part to the global peacetime atomic energy program.

Lowry spoke briefly on the rapidly expanding uses of atomic energy, including preservation of food without refrigeration. The government has a plant for this purpose in Stockton, Calif.

The speaker was introduced by Howard D. Fogle, program chairman. His appearance here was arranged by Fogle and Ralph Penn in cooperation with P. F. Bliss, community relations coordinator at the Southern Ohio plant.

* * *

FRANK ESPOHL, Cincinnati, was the guest of Edmond Woodmansee at the meeting, and J. A. Duncan, Greenfield, was the only visiting Rotarian.

Fred Rost, attending this first meeting since recovering from a serious illness, spoke briefly.

* * *

INSTEAD of their luncheon session next week, local Rotarians and their wives will attend an intercities meeting at Snow Hill Country Club near Wilmington. Greenfield and Hillsboro clubs will participate.

Dr. Samuel Marble, president of Wilmington College, will address a Rotary Ann party at Washington Country Club Wednesday evening, Nov. 6.

Bloomingburg School News

By ANNE CRAIG

BLOOMINGBURG — The teachers at Bloomingburg School deserve a large amount of the credit for the top-ranking achievements of the students. All six of the elementary teachers and seven of the nine high school teachers were on the faculty last year. The two new instructors are Mr. Malcolm Kelley and Mr. John Limbert.

Mr. Kelley graduated from Belfast High School in Highland County. He majored in Social Studies and English at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., where he graduated in 1952. This is his fourth year of teaching. At Bloomingburg he teaches English 9 and 10, and four history courses. He lives in Washington C. H. with Mrs. Kelley and their four children.

Mr. Limbert graduated from Upper Arlington High School and continued his education at Ohio State, where he majored in business administration. This is his first year of teaching. He has classes in business math, economics, Ohio History, and geography.

* * *

A NEW COURSE, drivers' training, is being offered after a lapse of one year under the instruction of Mr. Everett Rudolph. General math taught by Mr. Limbert and Latin II by Mrs. Craig are two new subjects given this year.

Citizens of the Bloomingburg community might be interested in the various occupations of the 18 1957 graduates. Three boys, Garry McConnaughey, Don Welsh, and John Hixson, have enlisted in the armed services. Three other members have married. They are Shirley Williams, Geneva Leach and Jerry McCoy.

Seven graduates of the class, Tillie Lee, Sandra Roberts, Roberta Ater, Carole Cramer, Ronnie Huff, Darrell Mickle and Tom Slager are working.

George Iden is a student at Miami University, Marilyn Rhoades is at Ohio State, and Mary Cook at Wilmington College.

Attending the Springfield School of Business are Brenda Emery and Shirley Williams Garinger.

Donna Harris plans to enter nursing school soon.

O'Neill Hails Ohio's Plans For Expansion

GAMBIER, Oho (AP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill told Kenyon College students and faculty Tuesday that Ohio is embarked on the largest public improvement program in its history.

He observed that the state is one of the fastest growing in the nation and cited four areas of major growth. He said:

"In the next two years, two million dollars will be spent on parks, lakes and recreation in general. In the next three years, 31 million dollars will go for new buildings on campuses at state educational institutions. In the next two years, 47 million dollars will be spent on mental hospitals and correctional institutions, and during this same period a billion dollars will be expended on the highway program."

The governor said that, despite this, there will be no new taxes in the next two years.

By 1970, O'Neill predicted a 37 per cent increase in Ohio's population, a total of 3¼ million more people.

"By the next presidential election, he said, "the state will be the fourth largest in the nation. It is already second in manufacturing and the lead that New York has now is being steadily closed."

O'Neill said the geographic location of Ohio, between the lake on the north and the river on the south makes most of the commerce to the east pass through the state."

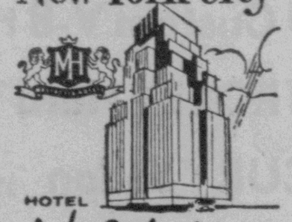

"Despite the phenomenal growth," the governor said. "Ohio has 65 million dollars in the bank this morning."

Ohio River Town Is Denied Sewage Discharge Renewal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board Tuesday denied renewal of a sewage discharge permit for the village of Coal Grove, near Ironton.

The board issued a notice of violation in the case and will hold a public hearing on the notice at its January meeting.

The village has detailed plans for about $350,000 worth of new sewers and a $150,000 sewage treatment plant. It has no plant now and discharges sewage into the Ohio River.

The village also is under orders of the eight-state Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission to provide treatment.

The board renewed sewage discharge permits for three other villages.

The permit for Lakeview, a recently incorporated suburban area in the Conneaut district, was extended for six months on the basis that minor pollution will be checked.

The Middleport permit was extended for six months on condition that village begin work on a $250,000 system of sewers and treatment plant.

The Pomeroy permit was extended for 90 days. During that time, community and State Department of Health engineers will consider reducing the size of the project believed required. Present thinking is that it would cost Pomeroy one million dollars.

Pomeroy and Middleport have been considering solving their sewage treatment problems jointly and today's action does not stop them from getting together on a joint venture, a board spokesman said.

The board also announced these federal aid allocations for building sewage treatment facilities:

Shiloh in Richland County $38,250, Millersburg in Holmes County $125,472, Flushing in Belmont County $46,462, Brewster near Massillon $103,026, Lowellville near Youngstown $122,901, Rockford in Mercer County $50,032 and Tiltonville near Steubenville $53,850.

AP Guesspert Tries Again To Pick Winners

While Trying To Cut Cigaret Use, Guesser Nervously Eyes Games

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Picking the weekly football winners always has been a four-pack job, but now the doctor says only six cigarets a day . . . so nervously . . .

Michigan State over Purdue: The Spartans were at their 1957 best against Michigan. Purdue has been beaten three times but isn't a poor team.

Oklahoma over Kansas: If they all were this easy, you could give up smoking completely.

Texas A&M over Texas Christian: John Crow is one of the country's better backs . . . and he plays for Texas A&M.

Minnesota over Illinois: There's just a faint hint of an upset here, especially if the Illini stop fumbling. Minnesota power to prevail over Illinois speed and passes.

Iowa over Wisconsin: Two of the Big Ten's unbeaten goliaths tangle but it is the Hawkeyes' homecoming. Randy Duncan's passing to decide.

Oregon State over UCLA: Oregon State has beaten UCLA only once since 1948 and that was last year. The trend has been reversed and now the defending Coast champions, with Joe Francis doing the heavy, triumph for a second straight year.

Auburn over Georgia Tech: It is close ones such as this that make just a smidgin' of nicotine necessary.

Arkansas over Texas: Just one more drag, please. That Walt Fondren of Texas can frighten anyone.

North Carolina over Maryland: Queen Elizabeth will watch this game. She will wonder what it's all about. So will Maryland.

Navy over Georgia: The first of the season's bowl games. This one is the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk and Georgia will discover that Navy has a real pearl in Ned Oldham.

Army over Pittsburgh: Yes, doctor, this puff was needed. As close as they come. The mythical Eastern title could be decided with the home field giving the Cadets the edge.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

FRIDAY

West Virginia over George Washington.

SATURDAY

EAST: Boston College over Villanova, Penn over Brown, Yale over Cornell, Harvard over Columbia, Holy Cross over Dartmouth, Penn State over Vanderbilt, Princeton over Colgate, Rutgers over Lehigh.

MIDWEST: Iowa over Wisconsin, Cincinnati over Marquette, Missouri over Iowa State, Colorado over Kansas State, Michigan over Northwestern, Syracuse over Nebraska, Ohio State over Indiana, Tulsa over North Texas State, Drake over Colorado State U.

SOUTH: Mississippi over Tulane, Miami over N. C. State, Tennessee over Alabama, The Citadel over Richmond, Davidson over West Virginia Tech, Florida State over Abielen Christian, Florida over Mississippi State, Virginia Tech over Virginia, Furman over Wofford, Kentucky over LSU.

SOUTHWEST: Hardin Simmons over Wichita, Houston over Oklahoma State, Rice over Southern Methodist, Baylor over Texas Tech.

FAR WEST: Arizona over New Mexico, Southern California over California, Utah over Denver, College of Pacific over Idaho, Utah State over Montana, Washington State over Oregon, Washington over Stanford, Wyoming over Brigham Young.

(Last week's score: 43 correct, 12 wrong . . . .778. Season's figures: 139-39-.779).

Tribe Engineers San Diego Swap

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians announced Monday night they were sending pitchers John Gray and Bob Alexander to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League in exchange for pitcher Pete Mesa, catcher Allen Jones and outfielder Dave Mann.

Gray was operated on last month for bone chips in his right elbow. The 30-year-old righthander came to the Indians from San Diego last July and compiled a 1-3 record.

Braves and Yankees Divide Record World Series Loot

NEW YORK (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees counted their ends of the richest World Series ever today.

Yankee pitcher Sal Maglie, who tried to work both sides of the street, was satisfied with one cut of the money pie instead of the two he almost landed.

The 30 Braves voted a full series share were wealthier by $8,924.36 for whipping the New York Yankees 4-3 in the series. It was the third highest stake in 54 years of series play.

Thirty-three Yankees got $5,606.06 portions, fourth highest for losers.

Commissioner Ford Frick released the figures. He also squashed Maglie's opportunity to collect from both sides.

The Yankees voted the Niagara Falls money pitcher a $2,803.03 share for the month he spent with them after he was traded from the National League Brooklyn Dodgers Sept. 1.

The Dodgers consigned a $1,507.19 third-place pot to The Barber, who would have earned $4,310.22 in a series in which he was ineligible to play.

But Frick stepped in. An aide said he "believes that no man should be allowed a cut from both leagues. So he decided that Maglie would have to take the allotment from the team with which he finished the season, in this case the Yankees."

The Braves voted $6,693.27 three-quarter shares to Bob Hazle and Nippy Jones, who joined the team late in the season.

They alloted three one - third shares and $7,500 to be split among bat boys, groundkeepers and part-season players.

The Yankees voted a full share to Bill Dickey, coach who was out all season because of illness.

They also passed out two half shares, two quarter shares and -3,250 to bat boys and groundkeepers.

The 394,712 spectators at seven games contributed $2,806,538.24. Attendance and gate receipts were records. The players share the proceeds of the first four games.

The St. Louis Cards second-place team in the National League earned full shares of $1,636.22. The Chicago White Sox, American League runners-up earned $1,521.39 per full share.

The Boston Red Sox shares amounted to $1,004.33. The fourth-place Cincinnati Redlegs and Detroit Tigers received $541.25 and $466.67, respectively.

Biggest share of all went to a nonpro. Uncle Sam hauled away a tax bite of $247,738.96. He'll get another installment when Yankees and Braves players ante up next April 15.

Spartan Lead All Teams on Grid Offense

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State is backing its standing as the country's No. 1 football team by leading the major colleges in total offense and rushing, NCAA figures show.

State, number one in the Associated Press weekly poll, also stands fifth among colleges in passing offense and ranks third behind two other Big Ten schools in scoring average.

Undefeated Michigan State has averaged 506 yards in each of three games on the ground and in the air. Iowa (497.3) and Wisconsin (442.7) follow in a near Big Ten monopoly.

The Spartans, paced by Walt Kowalczyk, gained 1,023 yards in three games for a leading 341-yards-per-game mark. Next in line is Wisconsin (995 for 331.7).

Scoring: Michigan State takes a back seat to Iowa (137 points, 45.7 average) and Wisconsin (128, 42.7). State is tied for third with Minnesota, each with a 36-point average. The Hawks and Badgers meet Saturday in Iowa City.

Utah is the best passing college with a per game yardage of 202.5 on 56 completions in 92 tries. Michigan State and Iowa are the most efficient passers. The Hawks racked up 11 yards for every completed pass, the Spartans .621 average (36 for 58) is the best.

W. Virginia, Indiana Get NCAA Spank

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Indiana and West Virginia universities are latest recipients of severe hand spankings by the NCAA for violating its recruiting code.

Both were put on probation for one year at the NCAA council's annual fall meeting Tuesday. Neither school, however, loses its right to participate in the 14 NCAA-sponsored championships or 27 cooperating events.

Indiana got it for football recruiting violations already toned down by action on the part of the Big Ten conference and its own school administration.

West Virginia was chastized for violations concerning the attempted recruiting of a basketball player who eventually enrolled at another school.

In other actions the council said the University of California at Berkeley, which was placed on probation Nov. 13 of last year, will be restored to full rights and privileges of the NCAA as of Nov. 13th this year and Ohio State University, under probation and ineligible for all NCAA championships and cooperating events from Nov. 13, 1956, for a one year period, was restored to full rights immediately.

DeMarco Aiming At Welter Title

BOSTON (AP) — Tony De Marco, rounding into the best condition of his career, served notice today that he considers himself the world's No. 1 welterweight — and will fight anyone to prove it.

"I intend to get the title and nobody's going to stop me," the Boston slugger said. "I fight when and where my managers say, but I'm ready for anyone."

De Marco shrugged off the storm caused by the action of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission in granting title recognition to the winner of his bout with Virgil Akins Oct. 29 in Boston.

Redlegs Acquire Havana Pitcher

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, has announced the purchase of pitcher Bob Kelly from Havana of the International League.

The 30-year - old righthanded pitcher for Nashville in the Southern Association last season, won 24 games and lost 11. He was the league's leading pitcher. Havana optioned Kelly to Nashville for the 1057 season.

The Redlegs management also announced that veteran pitcher Bud Podbielan has been sold outright to San Diego.

Experts Say Greenberg To Get Ax Today

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sports writers for this city's three daily newspapers think it likely that Hank Greenberg will be fired today as general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

The club's 13 directors vote today on whether to retain the one-time home run king, who has bossed the Indians for eight years.

The leanest year was the season just completed. The Indians lost games, fans and money amid rumors and denials that the franchise would be moved.

A majority vote of the 13 directors — not a stock majority — will settle the issue.

Greenberg is a director himself. He owns a fifth of the stock, but has only one vote in 13 on his own job. He says he intends to fight to keep it.

But the experts believe Greenberg must go — for much the same reason that Greenberg fired field manager Kerby Farrell at the end of the 1957 disaster. Somebody must be the goat.

Wrote Gordon Cobbledick, sports editor of the Plain Dealer:

"The directors who will vote against Greenberg are convinced that public opinion is so strongly anti-Greenberg as to make it impossible for them to win back the vanishing fans so long as he remains."

WHS Homecoming Plans Upset

No Football Game Here Friday Night

There will be no Washington C. H. High School homecoming football game at Gardner Park here Friday night.

It was called off at 10:25 a. m. today because two coaches and 22 players of the Wilmington Hurricane, which was to have come here for a Southcentral Ohio (SCO) League game, were out of school with illness.

Officials of the two schools reached a tentative agreement to play the postponed game here Nov. 15, after the close of the regular schedule.

Indications are, Principal Kaye Blosser of Washington C. H. High School said, that this date for the playoff will stand; however, both schools are still checking their calendars for possible conflict with other school events before making it final.

Whether the homecoming will be held in connection with the playoff is still undecided, Blosser said. He commented that developments have come so fast that all the details have not yet been worked out.

This was to have been the next-to-last home game for the Lions. The last one will be on Thursday night, Oct. 24, with the team from Pellville, Richland County.

The Lions will play their last two games of the season on foreign fields: at Hilliards on Nov. 1 and at Circleville on Nov. 8.

* * *

THE FRIDAY night game here was postponed because of an epidemic of illness (some believe it is Asian flu) that has swept the Wilmington High School. School officials said 247 of the 620 students in Wilmington High School were absent Wednesday.

By contrast, Prin. Blosser said a check of Washington C. H. High School showed only 48 of the 870 students were absent Wednesday.

Coach Fred Domenico said five of the Lions were missing from Tuesday evening's football practice because of illness, but he added that some of these were back in school Wednesday. Missing from the practice were Larry Milstead, Hank Anders, John Campbell, Jack Gillen and Dick Welsh.

Coach Domenico said he had his fingers crossed and was hoping that Washington C. H. will be spared by the influenza epidemic that has hit some schools.

The Lion squad went through its regular practice Tuesday afternoon, working mainly on offensive tactics.

Coach Domenico said, after the Friday game was postponed, that he has not had time to figure out a practice schedule for next week, but indicated there would be few, if any, changes—unless illness interferes.

Playoff Here Nov. 15

Half an hour after Washington C. H. and Wilmington high school officials agreed to postponed Friday night's homecoming football game here, Nov. 15 was set definitely as the date for the playoff. Soon after the playoff date was set, WHS officials announced that the homecoming ceremonies would be held then too. When the game was first called off, the playoff date was "tentative" and plans for the homecoming were uncertain.

Irish Guard Gets Lineman Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Monte Stickles, an end, kicked the field goal for Notre Dame that beat Army last Saturday and thereby hit the headlines.

His teammate, tackle Frank Geremia, who made it possible, was virtually overlooked until today when he was named the lineman of the week in the Associated Press poll.

You may recall the situation. Army, ahead by 21-20, had the ball deep in its own territory midway of the last quarter. Army's Dave Bourland tried a jump pass over line. Geremia deflected it into the arms of teammate Nick Pietrosante, thus paving the way for Stickles' feat.

Bucks Polishing Aerial Defenses

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes, clearly expecting Indiana to employ an aerial attack against the Buckeyes Saturday, put his men through an afternoon of pass defense at Tuesday's practice.

In three games this season, the Hoosiers ran up 250 of their 301 net yards, and scored their lone touchdown, on pass plays.

Former Lion Quaker Star

Roger Mickle, former Washington C. H. High School football star, put on a one-man show when the Wilmington College Quakers bowed to Bluffton College, 26-14, in Saturday's football game.

The shifty little halfback accounted for both Wilmington touchdowns and 153 yards of ground-gaining. He averaged 10.2 yards per carry, although as his team went down in defeat.

Breaking through the right side of Bluffton's lines in the first quarter, Mickle followed his downfield blocking 53 yards for the first score.

In the second period, the Quaker line cooperated once again as Mickle went through the right side, sifted to the left, and ran 36 yards for the Quakers' last score.

Bluffton scored in the second, third and fourth periods.

Logan Booked To Play Lions Next Sept. 12

Logan High School will replace Linden-McKinley High School of Columbus for the opening game of next year's Washington C. H. High School football season on Sept. 12, 1958.

Negotiations for the game were completed Tuesday with Logan High School officials, but Athletic Director Fred Domenico said it has not been definitely decided whether the game will be played here or at Logan.

The game was scheduled, Domenico said, after Logan officials had approached school officials here for the game to replace Lancaster High School on the Logan schedule.

The suggestion came at an opportune time, he commented, because Linden-McKinley about a month ago terminated the home-and-home schedule with Washington C. H. in order to schedule games with Newark.

Logan officials approached Washington C. H. officials when the 30-year-old Lancaster-Logan rivalry was terminated Tuesday.

The Lions of WHS and Linden's Panthers, while not traditional rivals, have been opening their schedules with WHS-LHS games for several years. The last game of the series was played this fall at Linden-McKinley.

Just how long the Logan-Washington C. H. games will continue remains conjectural, because the Southcentral Ohio (SCO) League is still in the process of reorganization.

AP Guesspert Tries Again To Pick Winners

While Trying To Cut Cigaret Use, Guesser Nervously Eyes Games

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Picking the weekly football winners always has been a four-pack job, but now the doctor says only six cigarets a day . . . so nervously . . .

Michigan State over Purdue: The Spartans were at their 1957 best against Michigan. Purdue has been beaten three times but isn't a poor team.

Oklahoma over Kansas: If they all were this easy, you could give up smoking completely.

Texas A&M over Texas Christian: John Crow is one of the country's better backs . . . and he plays for Texas A&M.

Minnesota over Illinois: There's just a faint hint of an upset here, especially if the Illini stop fumbling. Minnesota power to prevail over Illinois speed and passes.

Iowa over Wisconsin: Two of the Big Ten's unbeaten goliaths tangle but it is the Hawkeyes' homecoming. Randy Duncan's passing to decide.

Oregon State over UCLA: Oregon State has beaten UCLA only once since 1948 and that was last year. The trend has been reversed and now the defending Coast champions, with Joe Francis doing the heavy, triumph for a second straight year.

Auburn over Georgia Tech: It is close ones such as this that make just a smidgin' of nicotine necessary.

Arkansas over Texas: Just one more drag, please. That Walt Fondren of Texas can frighten anyone.

North Carolina over Maryland: Queen Elizabeth will watch this game. She will wonder what it's all about. So will Maryland.

Navy over Georgia: The first of the season's bowl games. This one is the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk and Georgia will discover that Navy has a real pearl in Ned Oldham.

Army over Pittsburgh: Yes, doctor, this puff was needed. As close as they come. The mythical Eastern title could be decided with the home field giving the Cadets the edge.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

FRIDAY

West Virginia over George Washington.

SATURDAY

EAST: Boston College over Villanova, Penn over Brown, Yale over Cornell, Harvard over Columbia, Holy Cross over Dartmouth, Penn State over Vanderbilt, Princeton over Colgate, Rutgers over Lehigh.

MIDWEST: Iowa over Wisconsin, Cincinnati over Marquette, Missouri over Iowa State, Colorado over Kansas State, Michigan over Northwestern, Syracuse over Nebraska, Ohio State over Indiana, Tulsa over North Texas State, Drake over Colorado State U.

SOUTH: Mississippi over Tulane, Miami over N. C. State, Tennessee over Alabama, The Citadel over Richmond, Davidson over West Virginia Tech, Florida State over Abielen Christian, Florida over Mississippi State, Virginia Tech over Virginia, Furman over Wofford, Kentucky over LSU.

SOUTHWEST: Hardin Simmons over Wichita, Houston over Oklahoma State, Rice over Southern Methodist, Baylor over Texas Tech.

(Last week's score: 43 correct, 12 wrong . . . .778. Season's figures: 139-39-.779).

Tribe Engineers San Diego Swap

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians announced Monday night they were sending pitchers John Gray and Bob Alexander to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League in exchange for pitcher Pete Mesa, catcher Allen Jones and outfielder Dave Mann.

Gray was operated on last month for bone chips in his right elbow. The 30-year-old righthander came to the Indians from San Diego last July and compiled a 1-3 record.

Braves and Yankees Divide Record World Series Loot

NEW YORK (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees counted their ends of the richest World Series ever today.

Yankee pitcher Sal Maglie, who tried to work both sides of the street, was satisfied with one cut of the money pie instead of the two he almost landed.

The 30 Braves voted a full series share were wealthier by $8,924.36 for whipping the New York Yankees 4-3 in the series. It was the third highest stake in 54 years of series play.

Thirty-three Yankees got $5,606.06 portions, fourth highest for losers.

Commissioner Ford Frick released the figures. He also squashed Maglie's opportunity to collect from both sides.

The Yankees voted the Niagara Falls money pitcher a $2,803.03 share for the month he spent with them after he was traded from the National League Brooklyn Dodgers Sept. 1.

The Dodgers consigned a $1,507.19 third-place pot to The Barber, who would have earned $4,310.22 in a series in which he was ineligible to play.

But Frick stepped in. An aide said he "believes that no man should be allowed a cut from both leagues. So he decided that Maglie would have to take the allotment from the team with which he finished the season, in this case the Yankees."

The Braves voted $6,693.27 three-quarter shares to Bob Hazle and Nippy Jones, who joined the team late in the season.

They alloted three one - third shares and $7,500 to be split among bat boys, groundkeepers and part-season players.

The Yankees voted a full share to Bill Dickey, coach who was out all season because of illness.

They also passed out two half shares, two quarter shares and -3,250 to bat boys and groundkeepers.

The 394,712 spectators at seven games contributed $2,806,538.24. Attendance and gate receipts were records. The players share the proceeds of the first four games.

The St. Louis Cards second-place team in the National League earned full shares of $1,636.22. The Chicago White Sox, American League runners-up earned $1,521.39 per full share.

The Boston Red Sox shares amounted to $1,004.33. The fourth-place Cincinnati Redlegs and Detroit Tigers received $541.25 and $466.67, respectively.

Biggest share of all went to a nonpro. Uncle Sam hauled away a tax bite of $247,738.96. He'll get another installment when Yankees and Braves players ante up next April 15.

Spartan Lead All Teams on Grid Offense

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State is backing its standing as the country's No. 1 football team by leading the major colleges in total offense and rushing, NCAA figures show.

State, number one in the Associated Press weekly poll, also stands fifth among colleges in passing offense and ranks third behind two other Big Ten schools in scoring average.

Undefeated Michigan State has averaged 506 yards in each of three games on the ground and in the air. Iowa (497.3) and Wisconsin (442.7) follow in a near Big Ten monopoly.

The Spartans, paced by Walt Kowalczyk, gained 1,023 yards in three games for a leading 341-yards-per-game mark. Next in line is Wisconsin (995 for 331.7).

Scoring: Michigan State takes a back seat to Iowa (137 points, 45.7 average) and Wisconsin (128, 42.7). State is tied for third with Minnesota, each with a 36-point average. The Hawks and Badgers meet Saturday in Iowa City.

Utah is the best passing college with a per game yardage of 202.5 on 56 completions in 92 tries. Michigan State and Iowa are the most efficient passers. The Hawks racked up 11 yards for every completed pass, the Spartans .621 average (36 for 58) is the best.

W. Virginia, Indiana Get NCAA Spank

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Indiana and West Virginia universities are latest recipients of severe hand spankings by the NCAA for violating its recruiting code.

Both were put on probation for one year at the NCAA council's annual fall meeting Tuesday. Neither school, however, loses its right to participate in the 14 NCAA-sponsored championships or 27 cooperating events.

Indiana got it for football recruiting violations already toned down by action on the part of the Big Ten conference and its own school administration.

West Virginia was chastized for violations concerning the attempted recruiting of a basketball player who eventually enrolled at another school.

In other actions the council said the University of California at Berkeley, which was placed on probation Nov. 13 of last year, will be restored to full rights and privileges of the NCAA as of Nov. 13th this year and Ohio State University, under probation and ineligible for all NCAA championships and cooperating events from Nov. 13, 1956, for a one year period, was restored to full rights immediately.

DeMarco Aiming At Welter Title

BOSTON (AP) — Tony De Marco, rounding into the best condition of his career, served notice today that he considers himself the world's No. 1 welterweight — and will fight anyone to prove it.

"I intend to get the title and nobody's going to stop me," the Boston slugger said. "I fight when and where my managers say, but I'm ready for anyone."

De Marco shrugged off the storm caused by the action of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission in granting title recognition to the winner of his bout with Virgil Akins Oct. 29 in Boston.

Redlegs Acquire Havana Pitcher

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, has announced the purchase of pitcher Bob Kelly from Havana of the International League.

The 30-year - old righthanded pitcher for Nashville in the Southern Association last season, won 24 games and lost 11. He was the league's leading pitcher. Havana optioned Kelly to Nashville for the 1057 season.

The Redlegs management also announced that veteran pitcher Bud Podbielan has been sold outright to San Diego.

Experts Say Greenberg To Get Ax Today

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sports writers for this city's three daily newspapers think it likely that Hank Greenberg will be fired today as general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

The club's 13 directors vote today on whether to retain the one-time home run king, who has bossed the Indians for eight years.

The leanest year was the season just completed. The Indians lost games, fans and money amid rumors and denials that the franchise would be moved.

A majority vote of the 13 directors — not a stock majority — will settle the issue.

Greenberg is a director himself. He owns a fifth of the stock, but has only one vote in 13 on his own job. He says he intends to fight to keep it.

But the experts believe Greenberg must go — for much the same reason that Greenberg fired field manager Kerby Farrell at the end of the 1957 disaster. Somebody must be the goat.

Wrote Gordon Cobbledick, sports editor of the Plain Dealer:

"The directors who will vote against Greenberg are convinced that public opinion is so strongly anti-Greenberg as to make it impossible for them to win back the vanishing fans so long as he remains."

WHS Homecoming Plans Upset

No Football Game Here Friday Night

There will be no Washington C. H. High School homecoming football game at Gardner Park here Friday night.

It was called off at 10:25 a. m. today because two coaches and 22 players of the Wilmington Hurricane, which was to have come here for a Southcentral Ohio (SCO) League game, were out of school with illness.

Officials of the two schools reached a tentative agreement to play the postponed game here Nov. 15, after the close of the regular schedule.

Indications are, Principal Kaye Blosser of Washington C. H. High School said, that this date for the playoff will stand; however, both schools are still checking their calendars for possible conflict with other school events before making it final.

Whether the homecoming will be held in connection with the playoff is still undecided, Blosser said. He commented that developments have come so fast that all the details have not yet been worked out.

This was to have been the next-to-last home game for the Lions. The last one will be on Thursday night, Oct. 24, with the team from Pellville, Richland County.

The Lions will play their last two games of the season on foreign fields: at Hilliards on Nov. 1 and at Circleville on Nov. 8.

* * *

THE FRIDAY night game here was postponed because of an epidemic of illness (some believe it is Asian flu) that has swept the Wilmington High School. School officials said 247 of the 620 students in Wilmington High School were absent Wednesday.

By contrast, Prin. Blosser said a check of Washington C. H. High School showed only 48 of the 870 students were absent Wednesday.

Coach Fred Domenico said five of the Lions were missing from Tuesday evening's football practice because of illness, but he added that some of these were back in school Wednesday. Missing from the practice were Larry Milstead, Hank Anders, John Campbell, Jack Gillen and Dick Welsh.

Coach Domenico said he had his fingers crossed and was hoping that Washington C. H. will be spared by the influenza epidemic that has hit some schools.

The Lion squad went through its regular practice Tuesday afternoon, working mainly on offensive tactics.

Coach Domenico said, after the Friday game was postponed, that he has not had time to figure out a practice schedule for next week, but indicated there would be few, if any, changes—unless illness interferes.

Playoff Here Nov. 15

Half an hour after Washington C. H. and Wilmington high school officials agreed to postponed Friday night's homecoming football game here, Nov. 15 was set definitely as the date for the playoff. Soon after the playoff date was set, WHS officials announced that the homecoming ceremonies would be held then too. When the game was first called off, the playoff date was "tentative" and plans for the homecoming were uncertain.

Irish Guard Gets Lineman Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Monte Stickles, an end, kicked the field goal for Notre Dame that beat Army last Saturday and thereby hit the headlines.

His teammate, tackle Frank Geremia, who made it possible, was virtually overlooked until today when he was named the lineman of the week in the Associated Press poll.

You may recall the situation. Army, ahead by 21-20, had the ball deep in its own territory midway of the last quarter. Army's Dave Bourland tried a jump pass over line. Geremia deflected it into the arms of teammate Nick Pietrosante, thus paving the way for Stickles' feat.

Bucks Polishing Aerial Defenses

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes, clearly expecting Indiana to employ an aerial attack against the Buckeyes Saturday, put his men through an afternoon of pass defense at Tuesday's practice.

In three games this season, the Hoosiers ran up 250 of their 301 net yards, and scored their lone touchdown, on pass plays.

Former Lion Quaker Star

Roger Mickle, former Washington C. H. High School football star, put on a one-man show when the Wilmington College Quakers bowed to Bluffton College, 26-14, in Saturday's football game.

He accounted for both Wilmington touchdowns and 153 yards of ground-gaining. He averaged 10.2 yards per carry, although as his team went down in defeat.

Breaking through the right side of Bluffton's lines in the first quarter, Mickle followed his downfield blocking 53 yards for the first score.

In the second period, the Quaker line cooperated once again as Mickle went through the right side, sifted to the left, and ran 36 yards for the Quakers' last score.

Bluffton scored in the second, third and fourth periods.

Logan Booked To Play Lions Next Sept. 12

Logan High School will replace Linden-McKinley High School of Columbus for the opening game of next year's Washington C. H. High School football season on Sept. 12, 1958.

Negotiations for the game were completed Tuesday with Logan High School officials, but Athletic Director Fred Domenico said it has not been definitely decided whether the game will be played here or at Logan.

The game was scheduled, Domenico said, after Logan officials had approached school officials here for the game to replace Lancaster High School on the Logan schedule.

The suggestion came at an opportune time, he commented, because Linden-McKinley about a month ago terminated the home-and-home schedule with Washington C. H. in order to schedule games with Newark.

Logan officials approached Washington C. H. officials when the 30-year-old Lancaster-Logan rivalry was terminated Tuesday.

The Lions of WHS and Linden's Panthers, while not traditional rivals, have been opening their schedules with WHS-LHS games for several years. The last game of the series was played this fall at Linden-McKinley.

Just how long the Logan-Washington C. H. games will continue remains conjectural, because the Southcentral Ohio (SCO) League is still in the process of reorganization.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

It has been a long, long time since a two-story frame building, owned by John Sanders, former mayor and justice of the peace, stood on the west side of S. Fayette St. at the north corner of East St. For many years, it housed one of the leading drug stores of the city.

The site is now occupied by the Burke Monument Co. Before the Burke building was erected in 1918, the tract was a vacant lot for a quarter of a century after the drug store building and other structures were torn away.

The site of the Fayette Theater, cleared 30 years ago when a brick and frame structure was removed, was the birthplace of Sanders.

Former Mayor V. J. Dahl was born in a two story frame building across the street on the site of the Record-Herald building. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dahl.

George Dahl and Jacob Dahl had a candy factory in a frame building on the site of the brick building now occupied by the Stookey Jewelry Store and Surplus Sales Co., immediately south of the Fayette Theater.

Later the building was converted into a livery barn, and still later was replaced by the present structure which is made of brick burned within the present city limits.

SEEDLESS PERSIMMONS

A large seedless persimmon tree, bearing a heavy crop of fruit, stands on the lawn of the Iris Marchant Sparks farm home on the Marchant - Luttrell Rd.

It is one of few persimmon trees of its size in Fayette County, and the second seedless persimmon tree I have ever seen.

The fruit are of good size, somewhat larger than the usual persimmons, and do not have the bitter "pucker" taste so common in the ordinary persimmons. The meat also is very sweet and pleasing to the taste.

Opossums are very fond of persimmons and on one occasion I saw one of the animals helping himself to the fruit during daylight, although they usually are on the prowl for food during the night time.

Records of The Bell Telephone Co. here disclose that Mr. and Mrs. Arch O. Riber have had the same telephone number (with an addition) ever since they went to housekeeping in Washington C. H.

The records show that they had the 96th phone installed by the Bell Co. here, and were given No. 96. As the time went by and it was necessary to change the numbers when the dial system was installed, the number was made 9601, and remains the same.

So far as known it is the only phone in the city for which the number of the phone installed and the ringing number have remained unchanged throughout the years.

Within a few years it is expected that the flowering dogwoods, which will range from pure white to deepest pink, will attract large numbers of visitors.

1955 Studio Film Told Of Earth Satellite

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Russians may have gotten the jump on the United States with their high - flying Spufnik, but they didn't beat Walt Disney.

Two years ago, the Disney studios made a film which demonstrated the creation of an earth satellite — even predicting the exact height at which the Communist moon has been orbiting!

The film was made for the Disneyland TV show and was later released to theaters as a featurette, "Man In Space." A second in the series, "Man In The Moon," is being released theatrically now and is getting a big play from space-conscious moviegoers.

Next comes "Mars And Beyond," which will appear on the TV show Dec. 4. I caught a preview of it and found it out of this world — literally and figuratively. The Disney artists have depicted some of the legends and speculation about life on the planet Mars, and the result is wacky beyond belief. But the show also deals with the serious possibility of a trip from earth to Mars in realistic fashion.

Commander of the Disney space patrol is Ward Kimball, who has drawn some great sequences in the studio's cartoon features but gave it up to become a director.

When Kimball proposed the space pictures, Walt tore a blank page out of a notebook and handed it to Kimball saying, "there's your ticket."

Kimball, who wears wild sport coats and plays in the Firehouse Five jazz band (a trumpeter was needed, so he taught himself to play the instrument), went to the best authorities for his data. He used the best scientific minds of the government, services and colleges and added the Disney entertainment touch.

The public library system of New York city has 25 million books.

Hollywood Celebrities Share Spotlight in Washington

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hollywood celebrities are moving in on the local party scene to share the social limelight with familiar government and diplomatic officials.

Hostess Perle Mesta, back to reclaim her title as No. 1 party-thrower after more than a year of galavanting, plans to invite many of the film capital's top celebrities to her fetes this season.

Her first big do of the season was tossed for Judy Garland and a movie-town retinue, though the usual crowd of Washington headliners were there, too. The hostess told me she has planned a series of Sunday luncheon parties, small and intimate "so everyone can get acquainted." The first of these was in honor of actress Joan Crawford and her husband, Alfred Steele.

"I love Hollywood," Perle told me. "I have made many friends there and I want them to come to Washington so I can repay the many kindnesses they extended to me during the months I spent there. Of course, I love the politicians of both houses of Congress and will always want them around."

This last obviously was a sly dig at rival hostess, Gwen Cafritz, who was quoted as limiting her congressional guest quota mainly to Senators since she didn't think "the lower House members" added much eclat to her soirees.

Perle's long absence from the capital last year was the cause of much speculation and gossip, since she had just barely moved into the handsome new French-style mansion she purchased as a permanent residence with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Tyson. The Tysons are still away, living in Nevada.

Perle gave lecturing and the TV filming of her life story as the reason for not clinging to the home base, but the involvement of Perle and her sister in a lawsuit brought by the divorced wife of the hostess' young nephew, undoubtedly had a great deal to do with it.

The suit was settled several months ago and a new Perle, gayer, more relaxed, slimmer and younger-looking than I've ever seen her, is back.

"I'm going to stay put awhile," she said happily.

OSU Trustees Give Nod To Building Contracts

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University board of trustees has approved contract awards totalling $846,247 for construction of the first unit of a proposed new fine arts building on the campus. Robert W. Setterlin and Sons Co. of Columbus was the low bidder at $617,100 on the general contract.

James I. Barnes Construction Co. of Springfield was awarded the general contract for construction of an addition to the dentistry building. The bid was $814,028.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hollywood celebrities are moving in on the local party scene to share the social limelight with familiar government and diplomatic officials.

Hostess Perle Mesta, back to reclaim her title as No. 1 party-thrower after more than a year of galavanting, plans to invite many of the film capital's top celebrities to her fetes this season.

Her first big do of the season was tossed for Judy Garland and a movie-town retinue, though the usual crowd of Washington headliners were there, too. The hostess told me she has planned a series of Sunday luncheon parties, small and intimate "so everyone can get acquainted." The first of these was in honor of actress Joan Crawford and her husband, Alfred Steele.

"I love Hollywood," Perle told me. "I have made many friends there and I want them to come to Washington so I can repay the many kindnesses they extended to me during the months I spent there. Of course, I love the politicians of both houses of Congress and will always want them around."

This last obviously was a sly dig at rival hostess, Gwen Cafritz, who was quoted as limiting her congressional guest quota mainly to Senators since she didn't think "the lower House members" added much eclat to her soirees.

Perle's long absence from the capital last year was the cause of much speculation and gossip, since she had just barely moved into the handsome new French-style mansion she purchased as a permanent residence with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Tyson. The Tysons are still away, living in Nevada.

Perle gave lecturing and the TV filming of her life story as the reason for not clinging to the home base, but the involvement of Perle and her sister in a lawsuit brought by the divorced wife of the hostess' young nephew, undoubtedly had a great deal to do with it.

The suit was settled several months ago and a new Perle, gayer, more relaxed, slimmer and younger-looking than I've ever seen her, is back.

"I'm going to stay put awhile," she said happily.

Britons Will Try Again Next Year To Win Back Famed 'America's Cup'

By M. E. BYRNE
Central Press Assn

In A Glass Case within those aristocratic premises known as the New York Yacht Club, on New York City's West 44th St., there reposes a tall silver cup of antique design. It has been there beyond the memory of Gotham's oldest boating enthusiast.

However, whether the old "silver spittoon," as it has affectionately been called, will still be there a year from now is problematical—for the ancient trophy is the famous America's Cup, greatest yachting trophy of them all.

And next September the old cup, after a hiatus of 21 years, will again be placed in jeopardy.

The America's Cup has reposed in the United States ever since 1851 when it was first won by the U. S.-built yacht, the America, in a stunning upset victory in a race around the Isle of Wight, England, over a field of 17 fleet British craft.

Now a syndicate of eight well-heeled Britons (to race for the America's Cup you have to have plenty of the solid stuff that makes bankers' polite) have challenged the U. S. to race for the trophy a year from now in a series of sailings off Newport, R. I.

* * *

NOT SINCE 1937 has Britain challenged for the cup, when T. O. M. Sopwith, famed designer and builder of military airplanes, sent his Endeavour II to these shores only to be beaten by the U. S. defender, the Ranger, skippered by Harold S. Vanderbilt.

The yachting series was broken off then, what with the world still in the grip of the great depression, and war clouds gathering in Europe.

Even after the war it seemed that the America's Cup would never be raced for again, it being the costliest of amateur sports.

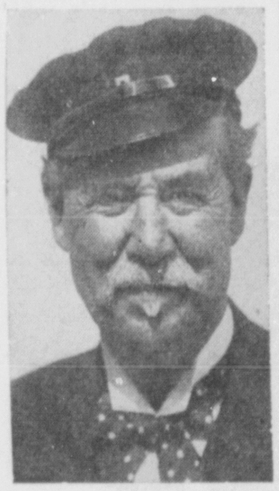

An example: the Rainbow, one of the last American yachts to defend the cup, cost a million dollars to build and finally was sold for $12,000 for scrap.

* * *

THE EXCITING story of the United States unbroken series of international yacht cup victories began in the summer of 1851 when a regatta was staged off Cowes, England. Top prize was the

The America's Cup.

Sir Thomas Lipton

Queen's Cup, put up for a race of the fleetest yachts of that day.

The field consisted of 17 British craft and a lone Yankee vessel, the America, which had dared the rough waters of the North Atlantic to have a go at the trophy.

Among the spectators who admired the courage of the America's crew were Queen Victoria, herself, and her husband, Prince Albert, who watched the race from the royal yacht.

The royal couple's admiration turned to amazement when the doughty little America glided swiftly ahead of all her competitors and left them all floundering in her wake. Proudly bearing the Queen's Cup, the winning yacht returned yachtsmen soon gave to the America's Cup.

* * *

FOR 20 YEARS there was no foreign challenge for the cup. Meanwhile, the War Between the States intervened. Southern interests acquired the America and, during the war, operated the swift schooner under a new name, the Memphis, as a highly-successful blockade runner.

A Northern sea patrol finally caught and drove the yacht aground in Florida.

Sixteen times since 1851 British and Canadian yachts have challenged for the America's Cup and 16 times the Americans have won.

Out of the long series of defeats for the Britons, however, came the most fascinating figure in yachting history, a truly great sportsman—Sir Thomas Lipton, the British tea merchant who spent a large fortune in a vain effort to win back the cup for England.

* * *

FIVE TIMES, from 1899 to 1930, Sir Thomas dug deep into his bankroll to build yachts, each named Shamrock, and five times all he got for his money and efforts was an excellent view of an American yacht's stern as it crossed the finish line. After 1930 Sir Thomas called it quits, still smiling and jovial—one of the most gallant losers in the history of sport.

Should the British—perish the thought!—win back the cup next year and, as may be their right, decide to rename the trophy, they could do far worse than rechristen it Sir Thomas' Cup!

U. S. Said in Need Of Latin Friendship

DEFIANCE (AP) — Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University and brother of President Eisenhower, believes that good relations with Latin American countries are essential to the safety and prosperity of the United States.

Dr. Eisenhower, in an address at the dedication of the Anthony Wayne Library for American Studies on the Defiance College campus, pointed out:

"A Latin America under control of, or allied with, our enemies could deny resources to us and even open broad lines for direct attack. A friendly Latin America can help guard the lines of communication, including the Panama Canal."

Food Poisoning Fells Food Expert

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The scheduled speaker at a meeting of Natural Food Associates here Tuesday night was unable to appear. The reason given was food poisoning.

Dr. C. H. Robertson of Owensboro, Ky., was the scheduled speaker. He became ill while visiting his daughter Caroline, a Wittenberg College coed, and returned home.

Harry Guardino Wins Laurels

Flood of Offers Finally Comes In

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If Harry Guardino wears a satisfied look over his co-star billing with Cary Grant and Sophia Loren, it's understandable.

The guy made it the hard way—up from washing dishes in Hollywood hash houses and filling in waits for acting jobs by shipping out as a seaman. He even claims he went without eating for four days when jobs were scarce.

Harry is a good-looking Brooklyn boy of 31 who is starring with the high - powered company in "Houseboat."

He started acting when he was a kid in Brooklyn. He joined a Police Athletic League dramatic group and continued his interest in high school. Then came the war. He joined the Navy and when he returned, he found the dramatic school he wanted to enter was crowded. So he took a test as a merchant seaman, passed with flying colors and shipped out.

During one of his stretches on the beach, he enrolled in New York's Dramatic Workshop. He later came to Hollywood, got a job washing dishes in a Vine Street coffee joint.

He got one picture job — in a Tony Curtis movie. A week later, he was working in a Beverly Hills gas station.

At one point, Harry decided to toss in the towl. He began teaching acting technique.

Then his onetime fellow student, Michael Gazzo, wired that his play had been accepted and he might have a part for Harry. Harry was assigned to understudy Ben Gazzara in "Hatful of Rain." But he took over Tony Franciosa's role later in the broadway run and on the road.

The result: A flood of offers.

Effect on Church of Changing Population Pattern Topic for Methodist Meetings

Problems facing the Methodist Church in Ohio as a result of the rapid growth of the state and the population shift from congested metropolitan centers to suburban communities will be discussed at a series of four meetings in Grace Methodist Church here on successive Sunday nights.

A study of the Ohio area of the Methodist Church has been completed and recommendations have been made for meeting these changes and solving the problems they have created.

A report on this study will be made next Sunday night at the first of the four meetings by Dr. Clarence LaRue of Columbus, director of the study.

The other four meetings will be addressed by Dr. John Dickaut of Columbus on Oct. 27; by Dr. Claude Garrison, Mrs. Harry Worley and Miss Jean Helms, all of Cincinnati, on Nov. 3 and by Dr. Richard Bauer of Protsmouth on Nov. 10.

Dr. Dickaut will speak on "The Need and Training of the Methodist Minister;" Dr. Garrison, Mrs. Worley and Miss Helms will discuss "The Inner-City Need and Ministry;" and Dr. Bauer will explain "The Christian Vocation."

Dr. Bauer's talk will be emphasized by a drama, "Where He Leads Me," presented under the supervision of Mrs. N. M. Reiff, director of the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship.

* * *

ON NOV. 17, the first Sunday following the series of meetings, Dr. Edwin Dickey, superintendent of this Methodist district, will deliver the sermon at the 10:30 a. m. service. He will summarize the four phases of the Ohio Area Study and outline to the congregation the responsibilities of Grace Church in meeting the challenge of these changing conditions.

Each of the meetings will start with a fellowship hour and potluck supper from 5:30 p. m. until 6:30 p. m.

The Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Church, stressed that arrangements have been made for the whole family to attend.

When the adults go into the church sanctuary for the meetings on church problems, the children will go to their own rooms for entertainment or classes, depending on the age groups, Mr. Poe explained.

Mrs. Madge Winter is chairman of the committee to take care of the children of pre - school age; Mrs. Dwight Nelson is chairman of the class for children of the first six grades; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Foster and Mrs. Maurice Hopkins for the intermediate young people and Phillip Grover for the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship.

The meetings— for both children and adults— are scheduled for 6:45 to 7:30 p. m.

DR. CLARENCE LaRUE

* * *

THE INCREASE in Ohio population, and the attendant population shifts toward the suburban communities, is related to the St. Lawrence Seaway, now under construction, in the study on which Dr. LaRue will report next Sunday night.

Dr. LaRue directed the study under the leadership of Bishop Hazen Werner and is now carrying out a survey with a view to enlarging and strengthening the work of the Methodist Church in Ohio, Mr. Poe explained.

Dr. LaRue, who was born in the village of LaRue, Marion County, is a former superintendent of the Cleveland district of the church.

He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and Boston University and received honorary degrees of doctor of divinity from both Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio Northern universities. He has served as delegate to the Methodist General Conference four times.

The Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Church, stressed that arrangements have been made for the whole family to attend.

When the adults go into the church sanctuary for the meetings on church problems, the children will go to their own rooms for entertainment or classes, depending on the age groups, Mr. Poe explained.

Mrs. Madge Winter is chairman of the committee to take care of the children of pre - school age; Mrs. Dwight Nelson is chairman of the class for children of the first six grades; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Foster and Mrs. Maurice Hopkins for the intermediate young people and Phillip Grover for the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship.

The meetings— for both children and adults— are scheduled for 6:45 to 7:30 p. m.

Central PTA Scrap Drive Next Saturday

If you have any scrap metal around your place, you can get rid of it with practically no effort at all. . .just a telephone call.

The Central School Parent-Teacher Assn. has scheduled a scrap drive for next Saturday to raise money to buy some things needed by the school which can't be bought with tax money.

A call to Dustin Girton (office 26751, home 33371), Dr. Charles R. Pfersick (office 9901, home 35841) or Cecil West (office 41031, home 3-1322) will bring a truck out to pick up whatever you may have. These three are on the scrap drive committee and Richard Whiteside, PTA president, said "if one of them doesn't come and get it, he will see that someone else does."

Whiteside added that "any old scrap money would be doubly appreciated.",

When the PTA laid plans for the scrap drive, hope was expressed it would bring in enough money to buy record players for use by pupils in the emergency classrooms in the high school, Grace Methodist Church and the First Christian Church, all of which are in the central district.

Whiteside said the committee will go anywhere in the city or county to pick up scrap. He also pointed out that the scrap not only provides an easy way for a clean-up, but at the same time provides a means for helping with the education of the children.

It was pointed out that the record players are used in the schools, not for entertainment, but for educational purposes.

If there is more than enough money for the record players, Whiteside said "there are plenty of other things the PTA can get for the school."

U. S. Defense Cutback Leaves Thousands in Ohio Jobless

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of Ohio workers are being laid off at defense plants and armed service installations around the state as a result of government cutbacks in defense spending. The hardest hit are manufacturers of aircraft and aircraft components.

Statewide unemployment is 60 per cent higher than for the same period last year—51,000 compared with 30,000—according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. A large percentage of this increase is believed due to layoffs in defense industries.

Hard-hit aircraft plants include the North American Aviation Inc. Columbus plant, General Electric Corp's Cincinnati jet engine plant and Thompson Products Co. of Cleveland, manufacturers of aircraft components.

North American has laid off approximtely 3,000 of its 15,700-man working force. A plant spokesman said the layoffs are due in part to phasing out of the Super Sabre and Fury jets and jet trainers, the plant's main products. But lack of replacement contracts is due in large part to defense cuts, the spokesman said.

General Electric has laid off 3,200 of its 17,200 employes. The cutback is due to cuts in defense contracts, stretch-out of delivery dates on existing contracts and reduction in the number of engines being returned for overhaul.

The southern Ohio aluminum industry and the Ohio petroleum industry, however, have sworn little effect from the cutbacks. The increasing civilian demand for aluminum is apparently sufficient to take up the slack. The same is true of steel manufactures.

The other area hardest hit is defense installations.

Wright - Patterson Air Force Base, the state's biggest military installation, is dropping 1,236 civilians of approximately 27,000 employed in all units of the base including the Air Materiel Command.

Many of these will be simply dropping a job classification when an employe quits. But a base spokesman estimated that perhaps 600 persons will have to be laid off.

The Columbus Army General Depot is laying off 300 of its 3,200 workers. Ravenna Arsenal stopped all production Oct. 1 and laid off 500 of its 850 employes. The remainder are mostly maintenace personnel.

Shelby Air Force Depot will be closed down completely by July, 1962. Air Force sources say the shutdown is due largely to the defense cuts. The base employes 3,000 servicemen and civilians.

Khrush Seen Using War Fear As Weapon in Middle East

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Using fear of world war as a weapon, Nikita S. Khrushchev has launched an offensive whose aim ultimately is to blast the United States out of the Middle East.

The Soviet Communist chief's propaganda letters to the Socialist parties of Europe are aimed not at the leadership of those parties, but at the rank and file, in an attempt to build a fire of dread which will eat away at Western political solidarity.

The object appears to be to gain a free Soviet hand, first in Syria, and then progressively in other areas of the Middle East, without the danger of energetic Western opposition. In a sense, Khrushchev is attempting to revive the popular front idea which bought time for the Soviet Union a few years before World War II by inducing political paralysis in Western European nations.

In those days Stalin used fear of fascism-nazism as the spur to goad Socialists into a common front with the Communists. Today, Khrushchev is using the fear of a Middle East explosion which could lead to a dreadful World War III.

Khrushchev chose his moment well. His threats and cajoleries come directly after the U.S.S.R. dramatically announced its success in launching Sputnik, the earth satellite, and in firing an intercontinental ballistic missile.

Any attempt the United States makes now to recoup its deteriorating Middle East position will become a new weapon in Kremlin hands. By playing on the fear of war, Moscow seems to aim at paralyzing American and Western policy so the Communists can proceed with what they appear to regard as a slow but sure drive to economic, military and ultimately political domination of the area.

If the Russians could do this, the day would not be far off when Western Europe would be at their mercy. Already they have intruded significantly in the two most sensitive countries — Syria, astride the pipelines, and Egypt, on the Suez Canal carrying oil to Europe's economic vitals.

Spy's Wife Calls Trial Data 'Smear'

NEW YORK (AP)—The wife of a convicted spy says testimony linking her with alleged Soviet master spy Rudolph Abel is a "smear."

Reino Hayhanen, a confessed Soviet spy, said in Brooklyn Federal District Court Tuesday that on two occasions Abel had ordered him to arrange for the payment of $5,000 to Mrs. Helen Sobell, wife of Morton Sobell. Sobell is serving a 30-year term in Alcatraz for his alleged role in the Rosenberg atom spy ring.

Hayhanen said the money had not been paid but that he had received a secret message instructing him to find out whether Mrs. Sobell would serve as an agent.

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were convicted as atom spies and executed in 1953.

Hayhanen has turned government witness at the espionage trial of Abel, which continues today.

If convicted, the 55-year-old Abel could be executed.

Mrs. Sobell issued a statement immediately upon hearing of Hayhanen's testimony.

The statement, made at the Manhattan office of the Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell, said in part: "This meaningless testimony is just a way of smearing me at a time when my husband's case is before the Supreme Court in a request for a new trial. Neither my husband nor I have ever committed espionage or conspired to commit espionage."

Mrs. Sarah Siddons, noted English actress, was 76 years old when she died in 1831.

Ohio Blue Law To Be Studied By High Court

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court today agreed to rule on state "blue laws" against doing business on Sunday.

Judges placed under review the appeal of Cleveland, Cincinnati and Hamilton merchants from convictions on charges of selling merchandise on the Sabbath.

They were Henry Leff, operator of Superstores, in Cleveland; William Kidd, operator of a supermarket in Cincinnati, and Coleman Ullner of Rink's Bargain City, Hamilton.

The merchants and those associated with them claimed the convictions violated freedom of religion and were an unreasonable interference with property rights.

Penalty for first violation is a $25 fine. Maximum penalty for subsequent violations is a $100 fine and 30 days in jail.

The Cleveland store handled general merchandise; the Hamilton store sold clothing, hardware and other items. The Cincinnati store operated as a delicatessen.

The merchants were convicted of violating a statute that reads:

"No person who is over 14 years of age shall engage in common labor or open or cause to be opened a building or place for transaction of business or require a person in his employ or under his control to engage in common labor on Sunday. This section does not apply to work of necessity or charity and does not extend to persons who conscientiously observe the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath and abstain thereon from doing things prohibited on Sunday."

Fake 'Death' Brings Arrest Of Bostonian

BOSTON (AP)—Alvin G. Plackter, 37 - year - old businessman, today was charged with larceny of $10,475 in connection with what police described as his fake drowning in Boston Harbor.

At the same time, two brothers, Louis Swank, 26, and Walter Swank, 29, who had reported "seeing" Plackter drown from his boat last August, were charged with being accessories after the fact of larceny.

Plackter was arrested in Houston, Tex., and was returned to Boston Tuesday.

Plackter was presumed to have drowned until his wife innocently applied for more than $100,000 in insurance he had taken out shortly before the drowning.

The investigation disclosed that Plackter had obtained $10,475 from the Pilgrim Trust Co. on what police said were fake securities which he claimed were worth $21,000.

Police tracked him to Texas by checking the movements of Miss Joan L. Gagnon, a college graduate, who disappeared about the same time Plackter did.

Police quoted Plackter as saying:

"I wanted to start a new life. I had debts and I wanted to get away from Boston and my family. I wanted to leave them well off."

Plackter's wife, Dorothy, 34, and their son, John, 8, are in Philadelphia with her family.

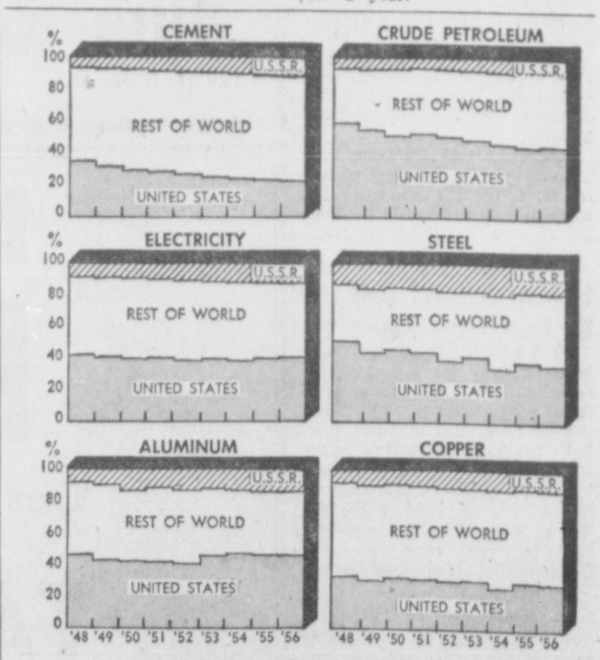

Seaman, 21, Sentenced To Death for Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Seaman Jimmie Henderson, sentenced to death by a Navy general court-martial Tuesday, will be transferred to the Navy prison at Portsmouth, N. H., to await the results of an automatic appeal.

The 21-year-old sailor was convicted of the murder of Ens. Arthur Morris of Stow, Ohio, aboard the cargo vessel USS Uvalde May 28.

Henderson's execution would be the first carried out in peace-time since 1842.

Tennessee ages its country hams for a year.

Khrush Seen Using War Fear As Weapon in Middle East

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Using fear of world war as a weapon, Nikita S. Khrushchev has launched an offensive whose aim ultimately is to blast the United States out of the Middle East.

The Soviet Communist chief's propaganda letters to the Socialist parties of Europe are aimed not at the leadership of those parties, but at the rank and file, in an attempt to build a fire of dread which will eat away at Western political solidarity.

The object appears to be to gain a free Soviet hand, first in Syria, and then progressively in other areas of the Middle East, without the danger of energetic Western opposition. In a sense, Khrushchev is attempting to revive the popular front idea which bought time for the Soviet Union a few years before World War II by inducing political paralysis in Western European nations.

In those days Stalin used fear of fascism-nazism as the spur to goad Socialists into a common front with the Communists. Today, Khrushchev is using the fear of a Middle East explosion which could lead to a dreadful World War III.

Khrushchev chose his moment well. His threats and cajoleries come directly after the U.S.S.R. dramatically announced its success in launching Sputnik, the earth satellite, and in firing an intercontinental ballistic missile.

Any attempt the United States makes now to recoup its deteriorating Middle East position will become a new weapon in Kremlin hands. By playing on the fear of war, Moscow seems to aim at paralyzing American and Western policy so the Communists can proceed with what they appear to regard as a slow but sure drive to economic, military and ultimately political domination of the area.

If the Russians could do this, the day would not be far off when Western Europe would be at their mercy. Already they have intruded significantly in the two most sensitive countries — Syria, astride the pipelines, and Egypt, on the Suez Canal carrying oil to Europe's economic vitals.

Spy's Wife Calls Trial Data 'Smear'

NEW YORK (AP)—The wife of a convicted spy says testimony linking her with alleged Soviet master spy Rudolph Abel is a "smear."

Reino Hayhanen, a confessed Soviet spy, said in Brooklyn Federal District Court Tuesday that on two occasions Abel had ordered him to arrange for the payment of $5,000 to Mrs. Helen Sobell, wife of Morton Sobell. Sobell is serving a 30-year term in Alcatraz for his alleged role in the Rosenberg atom spy ring.

Hayhanen said the money had not been paid but that he had received a secret message instructing him to find out whether Mrs. Sobell would serve as an agent.

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were convicted as atom spies and executed in 1953.

Hayhanen has turned government witness at the espionage trial of Abel, which continues today.

If convicted, the 55-year-old Abel could be executed.

Mrs. Sobell issued a statement immediately upon hearing of Hayhanen's testimony.

The statement, made at the Manhattan office of the Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell, said in part: "This meaningless testimony is just a way of smearing me at a time when my husband's case is before the Supreme Court in a request for a new trial. Neither my husband nor I have ever committed espionage or conspired to commit espionage."

Mrs. Sarah Siddons, noted English actress, was 76 years old when she died in 1831.

Ohio Blue Law To Be Studied By High Court

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court today agreed to rule on state "blue laws" against doing business on Sunday.

Judges placed under review the appeal of Cleveland, Cincinnati and Hamilton merchants from convictions on charges of selling merchandise on the Sabbath.

They were Henry Leff, operator of Superstores, in Cleveland; William Kidd, operator of a supermarket in Cincinnati, and Coleman Ullner of Rink's Bargain City, Hamilton.

The merchants and those associated with them claimed the convictions violated freedom of religion and were an unreasonable interference with property rights.

Penalty for first violation is a $25 fine. Maximum penalty for subsequent violations is a $100 fine and 30 days in jail.

The Cleveland store handled general merchandise; the Hamilton store sold clothing, hardware and other items. The Cincinnati store operated as a delicatessen.

The merchants were convicted of violating a statute that reads:

"No person who is over 14 years of age shall engage in common labor or open or cause to be opened a building or place for transaction of business or require a person in his employ or under his control to engage in common labor on Sunday. This section does not apply to work of necessity or charity and does not extend to persons who conscientiously observe the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath and abstain thereon from doing things prohibited on Sunday."

Fake 'Death' Brings Arrest Of Bostonian

BOSTON (AP)—Alvin G. Plackter, 37 - year - old businessman, today was charged with larceny of $10,475 in connection with what police described as his fake drowning in Boston Harbor.

At the same time, two brothers, Louis Swank, 26, and Walter Swank, 29, who had reported "seeing" Plackter drown from his boat last August, were charged with being accessories after the fact of larceny.

Plackter was arrested in Houston, Tex., and was returned to Boston Tuesday.

Plackter was presumed to have drowned until his wife innocently applied for more than $100,000 in insurance he had taken out shortly before the drowning.

The investigation disclosed that Plackter had obtained $10,475 from the Pilgrim Trust Co. on what police said were fake securities which he claimed were worth $21,000.

Police tracked him to Texas by checking the movements of Miss Joan L. Gagnon, a college graduate, who disappeared about the same time Plackter did.

Police quoted Plackter as saying:

"I wanted to start a new life. I had debts and I wanted to get away from Boston and my family. I wanted to leave them well off."

Plackter's wife, Dorothy, 34, and their son, John, 8, are in Philadelphia with her family.

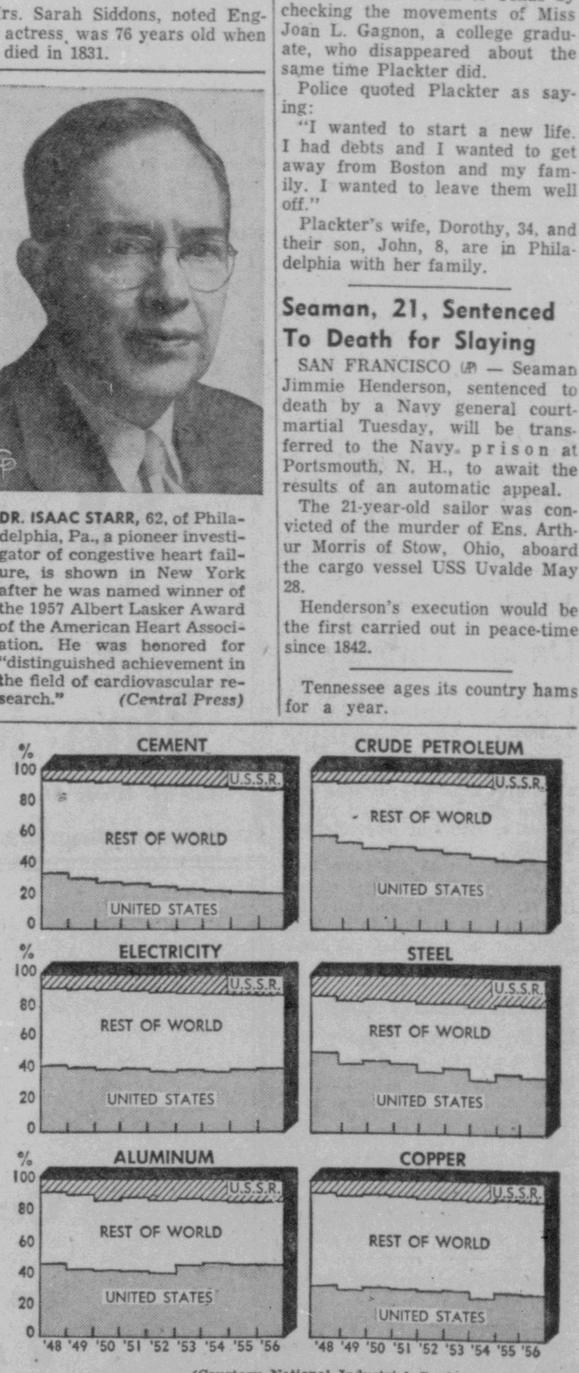

Seaman, 21, Sentenced To Death for Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Seaman Jimmie Henderson, sentenced to death by a Navy general court-martial Tuesday, will be transferred to the Navy prison at Portsmouth, N. H., to await the results of an automatic appeal.

The 21-year-old sailor was convicted of the murder of Ens. Arthur Morris of Stow, Ohio, aboard the cargo vessel USS Uvalde May 28.

Henderson's execution would be the first carried out in peace-time since 1842.

Tennessee ages its country hams for a year.

Woman's Place Described by BPW Speaker

Need of Hospital Are Explained by One of Trustees

Miss Olive Huston of Xenia, past president of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, told the Washington C. H. group she does not believe in a "woman's world," but rather that she feels women "just want to take their rightful place at the policy table."

The principal speaker at Tuesday night's dinner meeting at the Country Club, Miss Huston spiced her talk on "Gentlemen Be Seated" with humorous quips about the men.

She declared that men should not be "frightened by the alarming number of career and working women" in the business world today. She noted that there are more than 22,000,000 women in this catagory now.

She said that, in her opinion, men should invite women to be seated at the policy table with them instead of calling on them to carry out the plans and do the work after the plans have been made.

Miss Huston showed the club a candle that was given to her 34 years ago as a favor at a BPW club meeting in Portland, Ore., and then, as she lighted it commented: "This organization now has 175,000 members to keep it burning."

W. G. Abernathy, one of the few men at the meeting, entertained with two songs, "Smiling Through" and "Stouthearted Men." He was accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Yerian and introduced by Miss Marie Melvin, chairman of the federation committee, which had charge of the program.

* * *

MISS MARIE Marchant, the president, conducted the business meeting at which routine reports were given and two guests, Mrs. Marianne Long and Mrs. Virginia Kendig of Xenia were introduced. Both guests are members of the Xenia BPW club.

Edwin Ducey, a member of the board of trustees of Memorial Hospital, described the proposed addition to the hospital and explained why an operating levy is needed. Both the building program and levy proposals are to be submitted to the voters at the Nov. 5 election.

Members of the committee whch planned the program are Miss Melvin and Mrs. Helen McCoy, co-chairmen, Miss Mary Jo Cullen, Miss Essyle Thornton, Mrs. Dena Haines, Miss Minnie Graves, Miss Eva Thornton, Mrs. Edyth Craig, Mrs. Gladys Ramey, Mrs. Pauline Sprague, Mrs. Mae Schleich and Mrs. Wilma Hastings.

The picture, a shore scene featuring plenty of sky, water and grass, was painted from life Florida.

Elks Planning Charity Ball

Plans for the third annual Elks charity ball began to take definite form at Tuesday night's meeting of the committee.

The open dance will be held this year on Nov. 16 in the American Legion hall. Arrangements for the orchestra are still tentative, and some of the details remain to be worked out, Norman Boop, the committee spokesman said.

There was a time, many years ago, when the Elks Charity Ball was one of the major social events of the year in Washington C. H. Then came a time when they were no longer sponsored by the lodge.

Two years ago, another charity ball was held, the following year another and now the third one is well along in the planning stage.

Andre Metais is chairman of the general dance committee. William Stoughton is exalted ruler of the lodge.

The committee spokesman said plans for the Nov. 16 dance probably would be brought up for suggestions at tonight's regular lodge meeting.

Pickaway Board Rescinds Oct. 2 Consolidation Order

CIRCLEVILLE — The Pickaway County Board of Education has rescinded its Oct. 2 consolidation order which created three new school districts out of 13 existing districts.

The turnabout decision was made at a special meeting after the board members learned that the consolidation order might be illegal because of a procedural technicality.

It was indicated, however, that the order will be approved again at the board's November 6 meeting.

In its Oct. 2 order, the county board had created the three school districts in a single motion. However, according to a recent opinion of the state attorney general, each new school district created by a county board, must be by separate motion. More than one district cannot be created in the same motion, according to the opinion.

* * *

THE OPINION is now being tested in the state Supreme Court in a dispute involving school districts in Richland and Huron counties. A court decision upholding the opinion would cast doubt upon the legality of the county board's action earlier this month.

The rescinding action eliminates the three new school districts and the 30-day remonstrance period for the time being. The local school districts which were to be involved in the new territories, exist as though there never had been a consolidation order.

Board members said it was their understanding, however, that the Attorney General's opinion would have no effect on the Logan Elm school district. The Logan Elm district, created by county board order Aug. 7, came into being September 8. The district was created by consolidation of the former local districts of Washington, Pickaway and Saltcreek Townships.

* * *

IF THE BOARD does reaffirm the consolidation order at the November 6 meeting, a new remonstrance period will begin at that time. Barring such a remonstrance in any of the new districts the present local school boards of Ashville, Walnut, Harrison and Madison in the "Northeast"; Scioto, Monroe, Darby and Muhlenburg in the "northwest"; and New Holland, Deercreek, Perry, Jackson and Wayne in the "southwest" would continue in existence until December 6.

This would mean that the names of the local school board members and local school district tax levies would remain on the ballot for the November 5 election.

A number of New Holland district residents have indicated a desire to merge that district with Miami Trace district of Fayette County.

Lakes and rivers in Manitoba annually produce a commercial fish catch worth more than six million dollars.

John Kilburn, 26, of Morrow, was fined $25 and costs by Judge Max G. Dice in Municipal Court Wednesday after pleading guilty to reckless operation of a motor vehicle.

Forfeiting $20 bond on the same charge was Max Brill, 29, also of Morrow. The two were arrested after separate incidents.

The blaze was out on arrival. There was little damage.

Elks Planning Charity Ball

Plans for the third annual Elks charity ball began to take definite form at Tuesday night's meeting of the committee.

The open dance will be held this year on Nov. 16 in the American Legion hall. Arrangements for the orchestra are still tentative, and some of the details remain to be worked out, Norman Boop, the committee spokesman said.

There was a time, many years ago, when the Elks Charity Ball was one of the major social events of the year in Washington C. H. Then came a time when they were no longer sponsored by the lodge.

Two years ago, another charity ball was held, the following year another and now the third one is well along in the planning stage.

Andre Metais is chairman of the general dance committee. William Stoughton is exalted ruler of the lodge.

Collision Occurs On Rt. 22 Bridge

A Pickaway County youth's auto was badly damaged at 8:05 p. m. Tuesday in a collision with a truck on Route 22 two miles west of New Holland.

Escaping uninjured was Ronald E. Ater, 17, of Atlanta. His auto and a truck driven by Edward Rust, 34, of Covington, Ky., sideswiped on a bridge. The truck was undamaged.

Damage was to the "whole left side" of Ater's car, Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle said.

Enlists in Navy

Ronald Earl Pollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Katie Pollard, 1326 Pearl St., left Wednesday for San Diego, Calif., for nine weeks of recruit training with the U. S. Navy. Pollard enlisted as a seaman recruit with Chief Phillip Lee, in charge of the Navy recruiting station here.

Pickaway Board Rescinds Oct. 2 Consolidation Order

CIRCLEVILLE — The Pickaway County Board of Education has rescinded its Oct. 2 consolidation order which created three new school districts out of 13 existing districts.

The turnabout decision was made at a special meeting after the board members learned that the consolidation order might be illegal because of a procedural technicality.

It was indicated, however, that the order will be approved again at the board's November 6 meeting.

In its Oct. 2 order, the county board had created the three school districts in a single motion. However, according to a recent opinion of the state attorney general, each new school district created by a county board, must be by separate motion. More than one district cannot be created in the same motion, according to the opinion.

* * *

THE OPINION is now being tested in the state Supreme Court in a dispute involving school districts in Richland and Huron counties. A court decision upholding the opinion would cast doubt upon the legality of the county board's action earlier this month.

The rescinding action eliminates the three new school districts and the 30-day remonstrance period for the time being. The local school districts which were to be involved in the new territories, exist as though there never had been a consolidation order.

Board members said it was their understanding, however. that the Attorney General's opinion would have no effect on the Logan Elm school district. The Logan Elm district, created by county board order Aug. 7, came into being September 8. The district was created by consolidation of the former local districts of Washington, Pickaway and Saltcreek Townships.

* * *

IF THE BOARD does reaffirm the consolidation order at the November 6 meeting, a new remonstrance period will begin at that time. Barring such a remonstrance in any of the new districts the present local school boards of Ashville, Walnut, Harrison and Madison in the "Northeast"; Scioto, Monroe, Darby and Muhlenburg in the "northwest"; and New Holland, Deercreek, Perry, Jackson and Wayne in the "southwest" would continue in existence until December 6.

This would mean that the names of the local school board members and local school district tax levies would remain on the ballot for the November 5 election.

A number of New Holland district residents have indicated a desire to merge that district with Miami Trace district of Fayette County.
